Ulster Defeats $300,000 Complex

BY ALBERT J. CAWEIN

The $300,000 proposal for the construction of a town office building complex with highway department garage at Lake Katrine was defeated Monday in a Town of Ulster referendum 420 to 240. There were 15 void ballots in what was considered a light vote.

The 420 "No" votes is only slightly more than 10 per cent of the estimated 4,000 eligible voters.

Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz said the members of the Town Board will now have to discuss the next move. Musialkiewicz said the Town Board did what it thought was right and presented the proposition to the people. Now the people have spoken, he said.

He also said the consolidation of the town's departments would have helped the town's image. People are a little tax conscious at this time and this may have accounted for the defeat of the proposal, Musialkiewicz concluded.

The proposal would have been financed by the bond issue to be amortized over a 30-year-period. This would have added $1.73 per 1,000 of assessed valuation to the town tax rate. The study on the proposal noted that the elimination of the cost of the present operation in makeshift, leased and rented buildings could reduce the tax rate to $1 per $1,000.

Under the plan a 56 by 129 foot Town Hall and a 65 by 200 foot town garage was proposed for construction on town property along Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine, near Route 209.

The proposed new town hall under the plan would have cost $124,960 for 6,248 square feet, and the town garage would have cost $104,000 for 13,000 square feet of floor space.

The town hall would have provided a vault and storage room to consolidate the town's valuable documents.

The new facilities proposed under the town building complex and the inadequacies under the current housing plan were outlined in a four-page leaflet.

The brochure noted that the supervisor's office is at 35 Vincent Street; the town clerk's office at 1031 Columbia Street; the assessor's office at Lohmaier Lane; the collectors office at Lay Street; the Town Board meetings and justice court hearings are held at Lake Katrine Grange Hall and town records are stored in various parts of the township.

One of the vital necessities was the new town highway garage which would protect the town's valuable highway equipment from exposure to the weather. It was stressed by the supervisor that it was becoming more difficult each year to find adequate indoor storage space to house some of the equipment.

The Town of Ulster has three other town improvement projects under study and there is expected to be some form of action on these before the end of the year.

The Town of Ulster Zoning Commission has conducted a series of public informational meetings on the proposed zoning ordinance for the township and now must decide whether the proposal is ready for Town Board action, or if more informational meetings are needed to thoroughly inform the public.

A consensus at these meetings indicates that a large majority of the town's citizens do not want zoning. Following the last informational meeting commission chairman Mrs. Doris E. Mulvin said the commission must decide if time would be wasted in making recommendations and then go through another round of meetings, only to hear the same opinions, that zoning is not needed and not wanted.

A $4,528,000 sewer project is also under study by the township to provide service to the largest segment of its population. The project would serve 1,580 families within a four-mile area.

A referendum will also be held on this project as soon as all the legalities have been studied and met.

The engineering firm of J. Kenneth Fraser and Associates in the firm's study of the sewer improvement area indicated that $1,569,000 of the project is eligible for state and federal aid which will total 60 per cent under the State Pure Waters Program. This will amount to $941,000, leaving $3,587,000 to be raised by the township.

Another improvement under study by the township is the proposed establishment of a water district in the Spring Lake area. The project if approved would provide water for 750 homes in the proposed district.

Supervisor Musialkiewicz is currently exploring all possibilities to secure some form of state or federal aid for the project.

'Acceptable Risk,' HHH on Bomb Halt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says if elected president he would stop the bombing of North Vietnam as an "acceptable risk" for peace if Hanoi shows willingness to restore the demilitarized zone.

In his first paid nationwide television broadcast Monday night, and speaking from Salt Lake City before flying here, the Democratic presidential candidate said:

"As president, I would stop the bombing of the North as an acceptable risk for peace because I believe it could lead to success in the negotiations and a shorter war. This would be the best protection for our troops."

The vice president placed a qualification on his proposed bombing halt, saying that before taking action he would "place key importance on evidence—direct or indirect, by deed or word—of Communist willingness to restore the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam."

Humphrey added that "If the government of North Vietnam were to show bad faith, I would reserve the right to resume the bombing."

There was no immediate response to Humphrey's speech from Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, a fellow Minnesota Democrat who was the vice president's principal rival at the Democratic convention in Chicago.

But Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, whose late brother, Robert, was another Humphrey rival for Democratic nomination, sent a congratulatory telegram. He wired Humphrey:

"To all who look for peace in Vietnam, you have given great encouragement and hope. To all who seek new and more constructive directions in American foreign policy in the nuclear age, you have taken a position of distinct leadership.

"You are the only candidate for president who has offered the American people proposals for ending the war in Vietnam . . ."

Aides to the vice president made a point of emphasizing that, "We have made no effort," to inform President Johnson in advance of the contents of the vice president's speech.

The vice president said at the outset that "peace would not be served by weakness or withdrawal," and added, "nor would I escalate the level of violence in either North or South Vietnam. We must seek to de-escalate."

On other major points, the vice president said:

—"The ultimate key to an honorable solution must be free elections in South Vietnam," with the Viet Cong and other dissident groups allowed to participate if "they were willing to abide by peaceful processes."

—"I would propose once more an immediate cease-fire—with the United Nations or other international supervision—and supervised withdrawal of all foreign forces from South Vietnam.

—"I would sit down with the leaders of South Vietnam to set a specific timetable by which American forces could be systematically reduced while South Vietnamese forces took over more and more of the burden." He said he thought this would be possible next year.

George Wallace Says He's Strong in Michigan

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) —George C. Wallace stumped through Michigan today, a state he predicts he will win in November if the mail he has received from Michigan voters is an accurate indication.

"If we get as many votes as we have letters, we'll win in Michigan," Wallace told newsmen in Chicago where he campaigned Monday.

Wallace is speaking in Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Lansing and Flint today.

Wallace spoke to 10,000 persons at an open-air rally in Cicero, a western suburb of Chicago.

Earlier Monday, he was greeted by Chicagoans who lined the sidewalks of State Street during the noon hour to see the former Alabama governor. Police estimated the crowd at 50,000.

Wallace disputed the report that the crowd numbered only 50,000.

"I saw acres and acres of people out there. That's how we measure in Alabama," he joked. Asked his estimate of the both friendly and hostile crowd, Wallace said without a blink or a smile, "two million."

During the question-and-answer session with newsmen, Wallace was asked why he hadn't challenged Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Richard M. Nixon to a debate.

"If it will help this press conference to be a success," he smiled, "all right, I challenge Nixon and Humphrey to a debate."

Wallace said, however, "it would be a safe thing for Mr. Nixon if he did not debate." Wallace said that in a debate he would "expose" the different postures Nixon has assumed on various issues.

Wallace said he hoped to name a vice-presidential candidate "within the next day or so." He also said the American Independent party platform will be announced this week during his swing through Ohio, Pennsylvania, Indiana, New York and New Jersey—states thick with electoral votes which Wallace needs to boost his drive to the White House.

In Cicero, a blue-collar, white community of 60,000 hinged to Chicago's western borders, Wallace drew loud applause when he derided open housing, lawlessness and proponents of submission in Vietnam.

In 1966, National Guardsmen were called to preserve order in Cicero when Negroes marched through the community in support of open-housing legislation.

About 10 scrubbed, well-groomed youths were among the spectators as Wallace spoke from a bandstand erected on Cermak Road, the main street.

They carried signs which read, "Don't Let Wallace Turn Our Nation into a Police State," and "Love Thy Neighbor." The placards were torn from their hands and ripped by supporters of Wallace.

Several of the anti-Wallace youths wore McCarthy buttons..

Wallace touched on various subjects, saying:

—He could not judge whether a bombing halt would be desirable in January after the new president takes office but he said he would be for it if a halt help would peace negotiations.

—He remained firmly against the use of nuclear weapons.

—He is sorry that Negroes believe he is a racist and he will try to dispel that image in his campaign.

At New Haven, Conn., Glen Parker, the Connecticut coordinator of the Wallace for President Committee, said Wallace would name retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay as his running mate.

GOP Leaders Chide Hubert on Speech

DETROIT (AP) — Republican congressional leaders, in a statement relayed by Richard M. Nixon, said today that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's qualified support of a halt in U.S. bombing of North Vietnam is politically motivated and should be disregarded.

The Republican presidential nominee himself withheld comment on Humphrey's pronouncement until later, but indicated he was not about to temper his opposition to a bombing halt without some reciprocal move by the Communists.

Nixon talked by telephone with Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois and Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and then issued in their behalf this response to Humphrey:

"We conclude that his 'new' policies have only a partisan motivation and purpose and should be so regarded and therefore disregarded."

Humphrey, in a nationally televised speech Monday night said that as president he would stop the bombing as an "acceptable risk for peace."

But he added these qualifying words:

"In weighing that risk—and before taking action—I would place key importance on evidence—direct or indirect—by word or deed— of Communist willingness to restore the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam."

Dirksen and Ford telephoned Nixon following the Humphrey address and told him that in numerous White House conferences on Vietnam "we have never heard the vice president advocate the policies he advocated this evening—never."

On that basis, the Republican leaders said they concluded that Humphrey had partisan motivation.

Nixon said of his Democratic rival for the White House, "I don't want to say anything until I have read the full text of his remarks."

A reporter asked Nixon whether he had altered his own position on the issue.

"No," Nixon said.

When the bombing issue was raised last Friday in Louisville, Ky., Nixon aides reissued an April 1 pronouncement by their candidate:

"In my judgment, a bombing halt by itself would not be a step toward peace. But, if the United States has finally received assurances that it would be reciprocated, then further steps toward peace may become possible."

Humphrey said that as president he would stop the bombing 'as an acceptable risk for peace.' But he also said that in weighing the risk, and 'before taking action," he would put key importance on evidence of Communist willingness to restore the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, which now is a battleground.

Humphrey was said to feel his position represented a significant departure from that of President Johnson.

Nixon confers today with about 18 leaders of community projects designed to provide jobs for the unemployed. He said he was seeking data on a program to provide private enterprise with financial incentives to create jobs.

Once the U.S. system is working properly to deal with the unemployment and other problems besetting Negroes and the poor, he said in a Michigan-wide television broadcast Monday night, racial revolutionaries will lose "their spear-carriers."

He spoke of men like H. Rap Brown and Stokely Carmichael.

In the same broadcast, Nixon indicated a Republican administration would enforce more stringently the new federal law banning interstate travel with intent to incite riot.

Nixon also set his guideline for appointments to the Supreme Court—without mentioning embattled Abe Fortas, Johnson's nominee to be chief justice, whose appointment is locked in a Senate battle.

"I'm not so concerned about whether a man is a liberal or a conservative," Nixon said. "I am more concerned about his attitude toward the Constitution . . I think our courts should interpret the law, I do not think they should move over and write the law."

Yom Kippur at Sundown, The Jewish Atonement Day

The Jewish people all over the world will observe Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, as the most sacred day of the Jewish religious year is called, beginning today at sundown.

The regular meeting of the Kingston Common Council, held on the first Tuesday of each month, has been rescheduled for Thursday of this week at 8 p. m., in honor of the Jewish holiday.

The evening service begins with the chanting of the famous Kol Nidre, which is a disavowing of any vows or oaths made, with the famous melody that has become a musical masterpiece. The purpose of beginning this sacred day with a prayer nullifying any vows made and not fulfilled, is to bring to mind the fact that man's transgressions can be brought about by not observing the power of the word of mouth. The prayers include a confession of sins, which are enumerated publicly, and forgiveness is asked.

It is believed that on Yom Kippur, the Books of Life and Death that have been opened on Rosh Hashonoh in order to inscribe the fate of each human being, are now being sealed. At a special service, called the Neilah service, which is the closing section of the 24 hour praying period, the ram's horn is again heard, and the Books of Fate are closed. From the eve of the Holy Day until sundown of the next day, the Jew spends his time in the synagogue praying and fasting, and ends his most sacred day of the year with the age old proclamation of "Hear O Israel, the Lord Our God, the Lord Is One," and pronounce the prophetic cry: "The Lord, He Is God," repeating it seven times, to the echo of the Shofar, the ram's horn.

At Congregation Ahavath Israel, 100 Lucas Avenue, the Yom Kippur eve service will begin with the Kol Nidre, at exactly 6:45 p.m. today and the service Wednesday will begin at 9 a.m. The services will be conducted by Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman, who will deliver his sermon on the eve of the Holy Day, entitled, Failures or Sins, and at the morning service, the sermon will be, Three Fears Have I. The liturgy will be chanted by Cantors Charles Flusberg and Hillel Ribner. The schedule on Wednesday will be as follows:

Preliminary service at 9 a.m., Shacharis at 9:30, Torah Reading at 11, The Sermon at 11:30, the Yizkor service at 12 noon, the Musaf at 1 p.m., the Mincha at 4 p.m., the Neilah at 5:15 p.m., the Ma'ariv at 6:45 p.m., and the conclusion and benediction at 7 p.m.

There will be a special service for all children on Yom Kippur Day in the Children's Chapel at 12 noon.

The schedule of Yom Kippur services at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue, has been announced by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn as follows:

Kol Nidre, Yom Kippur Eve 7:30 p. m.; Wednesday services 10 a. m.; Children's services 2 p. m., and Yizkor memorial services 4:30 p. m.

After the concluding service a Break-the-Fast Kiddush will

Area Fruit Farmers Are in Good Shape

In contrast to the problems encountered by Massachusetts apple growers, Ulster County fruit farmers are in good shape, according to William H. Palmer, county agricultural agent.

A report last week noted that the apple crop in Massachusetts is threatened with a $1 million loss because of hot weather and the lack of workers to harvest the fruit. The crop there is expected to be more than the 2.5 million bushels anticipated despite the problems of weather and shortage of workers.

In Ulster County, Palmer said local growers have good crews of local and off-shore pickers from the West Indies. He said the local fruit is maturing faster due to the high temperatures, but the cool nights result in good color to the McIntosh crop.

Palmer said the crop this year is about the same as last year, possible a little lower. However, he said the size is larger and this may make up the difference in weight.

GREEK TRAGEDY — Rescuers try to pry open mangled train coaches in order to free trapped bodies inside late Monday in Derveni, Greece. Officials said an accidental pull on an emergency cord caused a speeding passenger train to ram into the rear of another stopped train over a deep gorge. Early reports list 34 dead and 90 others injured. Rail officials said derailed coaches were staked two and three deep in places at the bottom of the gorge, 31 miles northwest of the Corinth Canal. The trains left 10 minutes apart and on the same track from Kyparyssia, en route to Athens with 1,000 persons returning to the capital after voting in the Sunday constitutional elections. Paltz Village Board

Sewage Plant ABCs

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

Sewage, its sights, and smells, confronted New Paltz Village Board members last night.

A contingent of Huguenot Street landowners faced board members at the regular meeting seeking to learn if the new secondary sewer treatment plant, now under construction, would be pleasing to the eyes and easy on the nose.

The plant site is located on the banks of the Wallkill River just to the west, and behind, the county's most historical street.

John Sherwig, a landowner and spokesman for the Huguenot Street group, asked if the plant would be detrimental to the health and beauty of the community, and if it would be more effective than the present primary treatment plant.

It was pointed out that the present plant produces a stench that rolls up the hill from the Wallkill and drifts down the street and into the ancient stone homes of the residents.

Mayor Henry DuBois said that the new plant was of the most modern design, that the area around it would be "properly landscaped, and that air pollution would be practically eliminated."

The mayor also said that federal funds had been temporarily suspended because of a letter, outlining the landowners complaints, had been sent to Washington by a village Historical Society member.

Mayor DuBois claimed the village board was waiting for word from the government.

It was brought out that the federal contribution to the plant was only to be $9,000, or one per cent of the entire cost of the project and that the village had already received most of the funds.

A spokesman for the civil engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios, headquartered in Kingston, had told The Freeman that the new plant would destroy about 85 per cent of the bacteria found in sewer waste and that, whereas the old plant contained open pools, the new one would be fully covered, with a constant filtering process breaking down the waste until it became almost pure before it touched the waters of the Wallkill.

The new plant is designed to be functional for population projections covering the next 10 years, or, for a village population of between 15,000 to 18,000 people.

The village of New Paltz now has a population of some 5,000 residents.

Trustee Leland Heinz said that the board would soon enter into a contract with Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co. for the erecting of more lights on Main Street between Wurtz Avenue to the west and Manheim Boulevard to the east.

The new lights would be more luminous than the present ones, and would cost the village $1,837.

Trustee William George pointed out that village streets at the north end were oiled and chipped, with the exception of 300 feet Prospect Street which required no parking signs for a day while workers completed the project.

It was brought out that the New York State Board of Equalization and Assessment granted a total per capita aid figure of $31,159.18 to the village-up near $5,000 from last year's aid sum.

Siege Is Clamped on Green Berets

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. Green Beret defenders at Thuong Duc conceded today the estimated 7,000 North Vietnamese soldiers surrounding them could capture their camp with heavy losses.

The concession came during the first lull in four days in the shelling of the outpost 330 miles north of Saigon. The Americans and their Vietnamese helpers said the big Red push was yet to come.

"If Charlie (the Viet Cong) wanted to take this place, he could do it with the number of men out there. He's going to lose an awful lot of men, but he can still take us," Lt. William Glendening of Caracas, Venezuela, told UPI correspondent Raymond Wilkinson.

The North Vietnamese clamped the siege on the Green Beret camp Saturday. Overrunning it would give them a clear infiltration path through the An Hoa Valley toward the U.S. military bastion at Da Nang, 30 miles to the northeast.

Bomb Attackers

U.S. B52 bombers rained 20-ton bombloads north of the camp while dive bombers and helicopter gunships slashed at Red positions around Thuong Duc every hour.

"They want this camp very badly," Glendening said. "We are a thorn in their side. If we weren't here, Da Nang would be wide open."

The Communists have hit the approximately 25 Special Forces defenders and 250 Vietnamese irregulars with 1,000 mortar and rocket rounds since the siege began. The U.S. aerial bombardment has done little to stop it.

"The North Vietnamese have carved their gun positions out of solid rock. We just cannot knock them out of there," Maj. Christopher Silva of San Diego, Calif., told Wilkinson.

In Saigon, U. S. spokesmen said guerilla ground gunners had shot down a second helicopter near Thung Duc Sunday but its crewmen were not hurt.

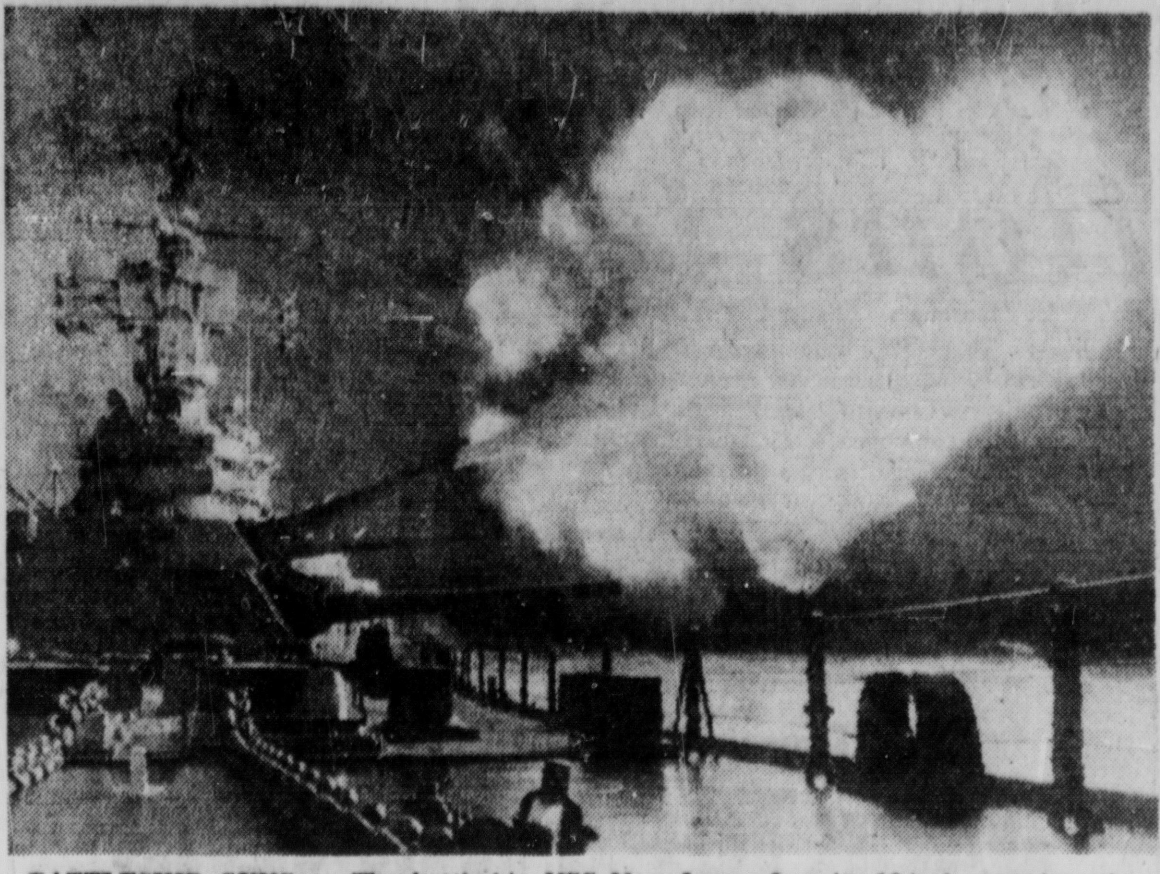
War communiques also reported the loss of the 901st U.S. plane over North Vietnam—a Navy A6 Intruder shot down on one of 108 missions into the north Monday. Its two crewmen were missing in action, the report said.

Sustain Casualties

At least 109 North Vietnamese have died in the Thuong Duc fighting, 70 of them during opening-day assaults that carried to the camp's barbed wire, and another 39 killed by the reinforcements breaking through.

Wilkinson said hardly a Communist shell lands without an allied casualty. A mortar shell killed two Vietnamese today and Silva said "They are chewing us up bit by bit."

Overall U.S. casualties were not reported, a usual security practice in battles still under way. The graves of the Vietnamese defenders lined the camp's small runway, Wilkinson said. Communist shelling made the strip unusable.



BATTLESHIP GUNS — The battleship USS New Jersey fires its 16-inch guns into the demilitarized zone in Vietnam. These were the first shells fired by the New Jersey in the Vietnamese war. The vessel is the only battleship on active duty in the U. S. Navy. (UPI RADIOPHOTO).

For Rocket Launchers

Navy Will Seek Competitive Bids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has quietly backed off its position that all its 2.75 inch rocket launcher contracts must go to a St. Louis firm which is under federal indictment charging kickbacks on past contracts for the equipment.

The Navy had maintained that Techfab Division of Alsco Inc., of St. Louis, had to get all the contracts because the launchers were "proprietary" and the time required to develop new suppliers would be "completely prohibitive."

The Navy awarded a $13.9 million contract for the launchers to Techfab while its parent company was under Grand Jury investigation this summer and the Pentagon refused to void the contract when the indictment against Alsco was returned in August.

Competitive Bias

But now, in a one-paragraph announcement in a Commerce Department journal, the Naval Air Systems Command has disclosed that it will seek competitive bids this week of 81,500 launchers

A Navy spokesman acknowledged that the Air Systems Command is seeking new suppliers for the rocket launchers, used by both the Navy and the Air Force, but would not discuss details.

Because the rocket launchers already in use or in production are a proprietary item—that is, the plans and specifications are owned by Alsco-Techfab, not by the government—the Navy made clear in its bid announcement that companies seeking the new contracts would have to create their own designs and build test models.

When a House appropriations subcommittee asked the Navy earlier this year to list contracts it awards on a sole-source basis, without competition, the Navy listed the rocket launcher contracts and explained them this way:

"The time which would be required to develop a similar Navy-owned item and to get a new manufacturer into production is completely prohibitive."

The Navy spokesmen would not explain this week why they now are seeking new suppliers, why they now have time to go through the new development process or what the Navy and Air Force will do for rocket launchers in the interim.

Last July 23, The Associated Press revealed that the Navy had awarded the $13.9 million contract to Alsco's Techfab Division while the firm's previous contracts were still being investigated.

Returned Indictment

On Aug. 7, the grand jury returned an indictment charging that on more than $47 million in contracts, Alsco and five other defendants had channeled $4 million into Swiss banks "well knowing that their interest in accounts in Swiss banks could and would be disguised and concealed" by co-conspirators.

Also named in the indictment were Chromcraft Corp. which merged with Alsco in 1966; Andrew L. Stone, principal stockholder, chief executive officer and a director of Chromcraft; Francis N. Rosenbaum, the firm's counsel in Washington and a director; Evelyn R. Price, Sonte's executive secretary, and Robert B. Bregman Electronics Inc., of New York City.

Chromcraft, and later Techfab, have been the Pentagon's sole supplier of the rocket launchers since 1962.

PICKET FRENCH LINE — Members of the striking International Longshoremen's Association picket the French Line in New York after longshoremen walked off their jobs in Atlantic and Gulf ports upon an expiration of contracts. Federal machinery is already rolling in an effort to get the men back to work under the Taft-Hartley Law. The strike has halted the loading and unloading of freighters and forced ship passengers to handle their own luggage. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

U.S. to Reds on Mideast: Take Solutions to U.N.

By ENDRE MARTON

WASHINGTON (AP — The United States has told the Soviet Union it should take any Middle East peace solutions to the U.N. General Assembly, and not seek bilateral "side pocket" talks.

This, officials say, is the gist of a U.S. reply to a four-point plan proposed to this country by Moscow two weeks ago for ending the state of war between Israel and the Arab nations.

The United States called for revitalization of the effort to find a solution though Swedish diplomat Gunnar Jarring, who was appointed by U.N. Secretary General U Thant more than a year ago to mediate the dispute.

A high-ranking U.S. official said Monday no "side pocket" talks between the United States and Soviet Union should confuse the issue.

U.S. officials believe the Jarring mission, which has made little headway, could bring results at the United Nations under pressure from the foreign ministers concentrated there.

The Soviet proposal to the United States was that Israel withdraw to borders existing before the June 1967 six-day war, the Arab nations declare an end to the state of belligerency, and that the United Nations maintain a strong presence to guarantee border peace.

The U.S. reply was drafted during the final days in office of Assistant Secretary of State Lucius Battle, the diplomat in charge of Middle East affairs, in the State Department. Battle left the department Monday to become a vice president of the Communications Satellite Corp.

Battle was replaced by Parker T. Hart, former ambassador to Turkey.

As is customary whenever there is such a change at the top, administration experts made a fresh assessment of the Middle East situation and reported the following conclusions:

—The Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia apparently did not affect Moscow's Middle East policy. The Soviet Union, though it has an increased political commitment toward the Arab state as a consequence of its increased presence in the area, wants neither total war nor total peace in the Middle East.

—In Egypt, which remains the key Arab country, there is great unrest under the surface which could change that nation's stance—although no one could predict what kind.

This unrest did not reach proportions as yet which could change the current regime, but the fact is that President Gamal Abdel Nasser has lost considerable power.

—Nasser himself is a sick man. He has severe diabetes. And though he is still the leader in the Arab world, there is increasing belief that he and his country would go bankrupt without extensive Soviet aid and major financial support from the oil-rich Arab nations.

—Althiugh the U.S. administration is alarmed by the great number of Soviet military advisers in Egypt—the estimate is around 3,000—the assessment still is that it will take years to reorganize Egypt' army.

Longshoremen Walk Off Docks, T-H Machinery Put Into Action

NEW YORK (UPI)—About 75,000 longshoremen today struck ports from Maine to Texas but federal machinery was already rolling to get them back to work under the Taft-Hartley law.

Members of the striking International Longshoremen's Association (ILA), picketed on New York docks, halting the loading and unloading of freighters and forcing ship passengers to handle their own luggage. The longshoremen walked off their jobs in Atlantic and Gulf ports at 12:01 a.m., EDT when their contract expired.

President Johnson had invoked the Taft-Hartley Act earlier Monday after talks broke down between the ILA and the New York Shipping Association. The law provides an 80-day cooling off period during which the striking union returns to work, if a panel appointed by the President finds the strike endangers the economic health of the country.

A three-member panel appointed by Johnson began holding hearings today in New York to determine if the strike does represent an economic danger to the country. The panel is expected to report to the President by Wednesday and if, as expected, its findings are affirmative, the attorney general could request an injunction ordering the longshoremen back to work on Thursday.

"We'll be at the hearing," said ILA President Thomas W. Gleason, speaking of the panel's meeting, "but the strike will go on. We'll come back after 80 days and be in the same position. We don't cool off so fast."

A White House statement said the strike "would have severe implications for our balance of payments," already at a deficit.

'In terms of impact of a strike,' the statement said, 'government economists estimate that the strike would cost about $70 million a day in terms of imports and exports, that wage loses for longshoremen and seamen would be about $2 million a day.

The major issue that brought the impasse in contract talks was the union's demand for an increase in the number of guaranteed working hours from 1,600 to 2,080, or 40-hour weeks each week of the year. The ILA is also seeking an increase in wages from $3.62 an hour to $4.25 an hour during a two-year contract and fringe benefits. The old contract was for four years.

Sen. Javits Is 'Sticking to His Guns'

SEN. JACOB K. JAVITS

By SHANE CROSBY

New York's senior Senator Jacob K. Javits remarked last week that he must "accept the results" of the current "Dump Javits" drive against his stand on gun control legislation.

"Regardless of political effect," he said, he can not change his stand on the legislation that has blossomed into a major election year issue along with the Vietnam war and "Law and Order."

Sportsmen's organizations opposed to the senators views and many groups, including a sportsmen's Club in Ulster County, have begun "Dump Javits" drives.

Seeking his third term in the Senate, Javits feels that the groups, who have an organized strength estimated to be 300,000 and non-member strength that could be as much if not more have their opinion but his will remains the same.

Javits noted during an interview in Kingston during his stop-over, that "public sentiment" is behind him.

In any event, many sportsmen seen to have respect for the senators stand. He was given the opportunity to speak at a meeting of the New York State Conservation Council and according to reports gained at least "sympathetic response."

His feeling on gun control are for strong legislation that would require the registration of long guns and the licensing of hand weapons.

He denies that such laws would "fundamentally restrict the use of these weapons by hunters and sportsmen," as some of his critics have charged.

Javits "accept the results" feeling is nothing new to those around the soft spoken senator. While serving as Attorney General of New York State in the early 1950s when it was under Democratic control, he said in response to disagreements with colleagues, "I do not propose to let my position as a Republican intrude upon my responsibility as the chief attorney for the state."

During this campaign he has kept with the main issues of Vietnam and "Law and Order." statements of his stand, Javits, the Republican-Liberal candidate, has shown some consideration for the opposition candidate George Wallace, view

When asked about third party Javits was vehement in his dislike of the former governor, but felt New York City was wrong in not giving him a "place to sound off."

The recent decisions in New York to bar the Wallace rally in Shea Stadium were "harmful," he said. "I hope some place (in New York City) could be found for him."

Wallace, he said, is running a campaign of "appeal to the base parts of the (nation's) character." He chided the Wallace team for using "ultra revolutionary" tactics.

If the Wallace rally is not permitted, he added, the extreme right wingers" may produce "activism" that will be as "harmful" as the Chicago riots during the Democratic Convention.

As for the youth of the nation, Javits contends that they must be shown that the country is not on the verge of break-down.

"It is true," he said, citing the many feelings of disenchanted youth. "We must convince them that the nation can work."

GOP Candidates Take Defensive Tax Stand

By KIRTLAND I. KING

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Republican candidates for the New York legislature are on the defensive on taxes.

Some are highly disturbed by reports that the state may have to raise taxes next year to provide for at least an additional $700 million in revenue. They say that in marginal districts the tax talk can mean the difference between victory and defeat.

And, the GOP candidates blame Arthur Levitt for raising the touchy issue.

They contend Levitt, the state comptroller around whom Democratic leaders are trying to rally in an effort to pull their splintered ranks together, came up with the announcement of a $700 million budget gap for 1969-70 as a political maneuver.

While some Rockefeller administration budget aides admit the likelihood of a major gap, top Republican leaders of the legislature were quick to challenge the Levitt pronouncement.

They called it an election "scare" plot.

Senate Majority Leader Earl Brydges and Assembly Minority Leader Perry Duryea charged the Democrats were taking the tax hike tack in a "desperate hope" of stemming a Republican tide which, they said, is "surging so strongly across the state this year."

Brydges and Duryea contended that the 1969-70 budget wasn't even in the planning stages and any speculation was premature.

Brydges said that if there were a gap between revenue and spending, the legislature might have to raise sales or income levies. But, he added, "I am not saying that this need is necessarily going to be with us."

Thus, the rank-and-file GOP legislative candidates find themselves faced with the tax talk, whether it's conclusive or not. They're trying to work their way out of it, too.

One incumbent assemblyman, who is running for re-election, said bluntly he would not support a budget increase of $700 million if it required a similar hike in taxes.

Assemblyman Neil Kelleher of Troy called for "an extra and a sincere effort" at budget-paring, instead of looking for new revenue, and also said he hoped the lawmakers would take another look at medicaid.

While the legislature this year did pare the medicaid program somewhat, Kelleher said there could have been "meaningful" reductions but the Assembly Democratic leaders refused to go along.

The Democrats, split into many factions, are urgently trying to rally their forces for the current campaign. They are looking to Levitt as the man who could bring them together since the hope that Vice President Hubert Humphrey, the party's presidential nominee, would do this apparently has failed to materialize.

The Democrats hope that by campaigning hard on state issues, they can separate the national and senate races and, at least, salvage their control of the state Assembly and congressional delegation.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 1, 1968

The Interest Rate Drop

Money borrowers, both individual and corporate, have been holding off recently because "there was something in the air," a feeling that interest rates have peaked and that waiting for them to go down would be to their best inerests.

It looks as if these expectations will soon be fulfilled. The Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, one of the nation's biggest, cut its prime rate from 6½ per cent to 6 this week. The prime rate is the interest paid by a bank's biggest and best customers. What is more, it in turn influences the rates charged other borrowers.

Other big banks are studying this cut, a steep drop that exceeded the anticipations of close observers. Bank officers explained their reasons: The decline in short-term rates since the historic peaks reached before Congress passed the income tax surcharge in early summer; the rate decline on Treasury bills from 5.85 to 5.15 per cent; the rate on 90-day industrial commercial paper fell from 6¼ to 5¾ per cent; and the rate on new issues of AA utility bonds declined from 7 to 6.40 per cent.

When a bellwether bank finds it necessary to drop to 6 per cent, it is notice that the holiday is over, and competition should soon make it easier for the little fellows to do business again—especially the home buyers and builders who have held back because the cost of mortgages was prohibitive for most people.

New Grim Appraisal

"It has been a discouraging, puzzling and enervating war and the U.S.A. has had little material support from most other nations . . . If and when the U.S.A. pulls out, the whole Pacific seaboard from Siberia to Sumatra would be wide open to infiltration or to conquest . . ."

Washington decrying lack of support in Vietnam and the warning of the perils of American withdrawal?

Far from it. The comment comes from the other side of the Atlantic, from the latest edition of "Jane's Fighting Ships," the annual British publication which is the last and most authoritative word on naval forces.

"Jane's," which regularly mixes editorializing and straight statistics on the balance of seapower (the Soviets lead 325 to 116 in conventionally powered submarines and 300 to 25 in sub chasers and patrol boats, but the United states is still ahead in all other major categories), takes America's allies to task for not recognizing the service U.S. forces have been performing in Southeast Asia. It warns of a growing feeling that "never again ought the U.S.A. to venture into any foreign mainland conflict, and that once the war is over U.S. forces will never set foot in Asia."

Should such an American withdrawal come to pass, however, it would not necessarily be clear sailing for the Communists. As "Jane's" sees it, the area might well become the scene of a new showdown—this time between the Russians and Chinese.

Lame Duck Budgeting

It is true that President Johnson will submit the budget for 1969 to Congress before he leaves office January 20, and that budget could determine the shape of the economy for at least another year. On the other hand, a new President could alter the budget and with it the shape of things to come.

For these reasons, we think that the weight given forecasts by treasury officials of the coming budget should take these considerations into mind. A Humphrey, promising vastly increased Social Security allotments, might tilt the budget one way. A Nixon, looking for ways to reduce federal expenditures, might pull it another.

With these possibilities in mind, let us see how the Johnson administration sees things ahead. Joseph W. Barr, undersecretary of the Treasury, told a press conference that the deficit next year will drop from the $25 billion of fiscal 1968 to $5 billion. His prediction was based on a $13 billion increase in revenues, as a result of the income tax surcharge, a reduction in federal expenditures that will probably work out to $2 or $3 billion — not the $6 billion demanded by Congress and agreed to by the President — and a 5 to 6 per cent growth in the economy.

Not at all visible is the balanced budget that was forecast when the surtax and compulsory reduction in expenditures were decreased. The surtax has not brought the expected slowdown in the economy. Nor has the cut in federal expenditures become effective, and is not likely to do so before this administration ends. That may be the real reason for the anticipated deficit. A new administration could do something about that.

The Senate exempted farm support payments but not Medicaid from the spending cuts decreed earlier this year. They favored farmers over the poor, who would be eligible to Medicaid.

Give Me a Place to stand and I Can Move the World

David Lawrence Says

Unusual Solidarity Shown by Republicans

Washington,—The most significant of the public-opinion polls taken thus far in the presidential race has just been reported by the gallup organization. It shows the results of two surveys taken in September which, when combined by the pollsters themselves, reveal what is happening outside the South and across the whole country. Nixon is leading with 43 per cent in the East, 50 per cent in the Midwest and 49 per cent in the far West. Thus he could lose the South and still achieve a landslide victory. Many a Republican nominee has done this before.

While Wallace is ahead in the South with 38 per cent, Nixon is second with 31 per cent and Humphrey is third with 24 per cent. So it is still possible for even some of the Southern states to split their vote in such a way as to give Nixon some electoral votes.

But the most important figures are from the regions outside the South. Wallace's total in the Midwest is 16 per cent, as compared with Humphrey's 27 per cent and Nixon's 50 per cent, with only 7 per cent undecided. Wallace, however, slips to 12 per cent in the East as against Humphrey's 34 per cent and Nixon's 43, with 11 per cent undecided. Also, in the Far West Nixon gets 49 per cent, which is more than Humphrey's 33 per cent and Wallace's 13 per cent combined.

What can be inferred from the figures is that the Democratic Party is really in trouble. The gallup survey reports that in its latest poll, 12 per cent of the Democrats are defecting to Nixon and 18 per cent to Wallace while the Republican presidential nominee is losing only 2 per cent to Humphrey and only 7 per cent to Wallace.

Some of the defectors may go back to the two major parties before election day, but the Nixon percentage is substantial. Actually, among the campaign workers for both Nixon and Humphrey, the fear is that the Wallace strength may continue to grow and result in a three-way split which could give an unexpected plurality to the former Alabama Governor in two or three states outside the South.

But when the figures are closely examined, the conclusion which seems most logical is that the Republican party has shown an unusual form of solidarity this year after its breakup in 1964. It presents now the image of a party united behind a candidate who seems more popular than he was when he ran such a close race against John F. Kennedy in 1960 If Nixon were merely to retain the proportion of the popular vote he got in that year, he could win thhe national election in 1968 because the Democrats are disunited by their defections either to Wallace or Nixon have opened the way to a Republican victory.

Sometimes kaleidoscopic events which have not been foreseen change the whole aspect of a presidential election. So the organizations working for each of the three candidates are not going to diminish their efforts. In the next four or five weeks lots of money will be spent on television. But there are signs that the public is becoming a bit bored with the campaign, especially its vague phrases and generalities.

Certainly a case can be built for a shorter campaign. There is no reason why the national conventions couldn't be held in the last half of September. Members of Congress would surely be happier if their sessions could be adjourned just before the conventions are held. Indeed, the Democratic nominees for the House and Senate are very uncomfortable this year because, with three presidential candidates running, the voter who doesn't know how to split his ticket or doesn't take the trouble to do so ends up casting a straight-ticket ballot.

The trend away from Humphrey may draw enough votes from Democratic congressional nominees, especially in the northern and western states, to cause many a Republican to win a seat. There is a good deal of talk here about the prospect of a Republican majority being elected for the House of Representatives.

In the Senate, where only a third of the members are up for election, as is required every two years, the contest for control will be close, as many of the members elected in 1964 and 1966 were Democrats, who naturally are not running this year. A coalition, however, of Southern Democrats and Northern and Western Republicans probably will control the Senate on major issues.

Defense Sec. Clifford Wouldn't Last Long Under Humphrey

By TOM LITTLEWOOD
(Chicago Sun-Times Special)

Portland, Ore.,—Hubert H. Humphrey appeared to erase with a vengeance Saturday any chance that Defense Sec. Clark Clifford would stay on in a new Democratic administration.

Humphrey, the Democratic presidential nominee, said at an appearance before the city club of Portland that his proposal for a reduction of U.S. troop strength in Vietnam has been contradicted by the administration's chief military adviser, Clifford, who has reported that the Defense Department has no plans to withdraw troops.

"Well, there's going to be a new president, "Humphrey said, with sharp edge in his voice. "Whoever is in charge then will be making new plans."

The Vice President reiterated that he intended to bring in advisers who would "take a brand new fresh look" at the U.S. commitment in Vietnam

Later, he said he was not yet prepared to say that Eisenhower, John F. Kennedy and Johnson should not have committed American force to the defense of the government in South Vietnam. He said Southeast Asia is more stable than it was five years ago.

Humphrey took his campaign yesterday to Oregon, where Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy scored his most smashing primary victory four months ago. It was here where the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy suffered the only defeat of his career—to McCarthy.

After he arrived in Portland, the Vice President went immediately about the task of winning over McCarthy followers.

He said it was time for the unreconstructed McCarthyites to "settle down and make some hard choices."

"They should take a look at the alternatives," Humphrey said. "Not a single objective of Gene McCarthy's, either foreign or domestic, will be accomplished by the election of Richard Nixon."

Humphrey said McCarthy would not ride out this election by failing to endorse him he acknowledged, however, that the absence of Senator's endorsement would be damaging.

In answer to a question, he gave assurances that he had not ruled out McCarthy as a possible Secretary of State in his cabinet.

In the Pacific Northwest after three days of touring crucial California, Humphrey kept pressuring his Republican opponent, Nixon, for a confrontation.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, Democratic National Chairman, directed a revised proposal at Nixon yesterday. He said the Vice President would be ready to debate only Nixon—without the third-party candidate, George C. Wallace—on television time paid for jointly by the major-party candidates. The equal-time requirements of the Federal Communications Act would not apply to a paid program.

Mr. Nixon is running in this campaign as the shadow," Humphrey told a rally last night at the civic auditorium in Portland. "He thinks that good politics is not to tell any of us what he is going to do.

"When will he meet with me somewhere that the American people can look at both of us? As a taxpayer and a voter, I am worried about where Mr. Nixon stands on issues that affect me, my family, and my country."

As a general rule, the candidate who is trailing clamors for a debate; the leader is nonchalant. In Oregon, Nixon is the leader.

He has a strong, pretested organization in this state. In the same Oregon primary in which McCarthy upset Kennedy last May, Nixon braked California Gov. Ronald Reagan's developing attempt at the GOP nomination by scoring an overwhelming victory.

Drew Pearson Says

Congressman Bob Wilson Is Money-Raiser Par Excellence

Two Best Sellers

The New York Times best seller list last Sunday revealed something unique in the literary world—two best sellers by the same author, one fiction, the other non-fiction.

A novel by Drew Pearson, "The Senator," ranked sixth on the New York Times best seller list, while "The Case Against Congress" by Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson ranked sixth on the non-fiction list.

Publishers say they can remember no other recent case when an author has had books on the fiction and non-fiction list at the same time.

WASHINGTON — If you look over the campaign funds raised by Republicans for the reelection of Congressmen, you can understand why fund-raising chairman Bob Wilson of San Diego wanted to be in Southern California where conservative money is and yet simultaneously pretended to be answering roll calls in the House of Representatives. Wilson has done an amazing job of money-raising.

Nevertheless, Congressional leaders of neither party could recall a recent case where a Congressman had arranged to have someone else deliberately answer the roll call for him when he was absent. In the pandemonium which usually exists on the House floor, this would be not too difficult to do. However, it has not been done as far as leaders could recall in the past.

The House now has an ethics committee, under the chairmanship of Rep. Mel Price, D-Ill., who has a reputation for honesty and integrity. However, under House rules the committee cannot act unless another member makes an official complaint. And it has been difficult for such a complaint to be registered on the House floor. When Rep. Joe Resnick, D-N.Y., called attention to the transgressions of Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., he was promptly rapped out of order by Speaker John McCormack.

It is possible for a member to file a written complaint with the ethics committee, but most Congressmen are reluctant to do this. It violates the rules of "The Club."

Flush Congressmen

Meanwhile, thanks to Rep. Wilson's ability both to raise money and falsify the roll call records of the House, a lot of his Democratic colleagues are having to raise additional money to combat Wilson's fund-raising.

Rep. James Corman, Democrat of Los Angeles County, for instance, is being confronted with a $100,000 campaign fund used by former Rep. Joe Holt, Republican, running against him. Holt is one of the ultraright wingers of Southern California, and a son of one of the contributors to the Nixon $18,000 personal expense fund in 1952.

Holt has spent an estimated $20,000 for billboards, and operates a gigantic headquarters in North Hollywood costing $1,000 a month for rent in contrast to Rep. Corman's storefront headquarters costing $100 a month.

Another GOP candidate with a campaign chest flowing over thanks to Bob Wilson is Daniel E. Weber of New York, who is trying to unseat Democrat Rep. Richard McCarthy of the Buffalo area.

Weber is a Cheektowaga policeman who is also adept as a white backlash spellbinder. Weber seems to have an almost unlimited campaign kitty, having spent $65,000 for television, billboards, etc., to win the Republican primary, and now having an estimated $140,000 on hand to try to take the general election in November.

Weber has been so flush that he's giving housewives thousands of sewing kits, plus several thousands of metallic key chains worth about 25 cents each. His campaign slogan is "I'll do more for you," a very dubious promise inasmuch as Dick McCarthy, his opponent, has chalked up an amazing record in securing some $50 million to clean up the pollution in Lake Erie near Buffalo.

Fat-cat money already has shown up in other areas on an unprecedented scale. In the 4th District of New Jersey, represented by liberal Democrat Frank Thompson, GOP nominee Sydney S. Souter has spent an estimated $25,000 on billboards, $15,000 for a mobile headquarters, plus unknown thousands for bumper stickers, placards and other campaign material.

Souter also has shelled out thousands for public relations, including $8,000 for a press agent.

T-Shirts and Politics

Money is also pouring in to defeat Rep. John Culver of Iowa. His GOP foe, Tom Riley, a Cedar Rapids attorney, though a Presbyterian, hopes with his name to roll up a heavy Catholic vote. He has hired a high-priced Chicago public relations firm, bought numerous full-page ads, and has been spending thousands on mail to farmers. He has his own portable booth for county fairs and has plastered the district with "Riley" billboards—paid for, in part, by money raised by Bob Wilson outside of Iowa.

On Long Island, the Republicans are even spending thousands on T-shirts to unseat Rep. Lester Wolff. An estimated 10,000 T-shirts, with the legend "Seldin for Congress," are being handed out by Wolff's GOP foe, Abe Seldin, Long Island insurance agent. Big oil also has joined in the battle against Wolff, because of his efforts to repeal the tax-dodging oil depletion allowance.

Texaco lollipops are handed out by Seldin workers wearing his T-shirts. The Republicans have a reported $135,000 in the till to beat Wolff, much of it to be spent for TV plugs in October.

In New Jersey, J. Russell Wooley, Monmouth County GOP leader, has been boasting that he has another $135,000 of Republican money to defeat incumbent Democrat James A. Howard, a liberal who also has been fighting for repeal of the oil depletion allowance.

When the GOP leader was asked how much broadcasting time he was alloting to the Congressional race, Wooley replied:

"For the time being, none. Our Congressional candidate doesn't need any broadcasting help from us at the moment. He's getting all the money he needs from outside sources."

That's how efficient Bob Wilson has been while he was cheating on his vote in Congress.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Shockers in Federal Spending

Courageous Delaware Sen. John J. Williams, who has said he may not run again, would be sorely missed by anybody interested in good, responsible government — Democrats and Republicans alike.

One of Senator Williams' most persistent (and documented) peeves is what it costs us to live under a government of tax-tax-elect-elect along with a government by crony.

Bobby Baker resigned under fire on October 7, 1963. That was five years ago. The Justice Department stalled and stalled and stalled some more before it finally charged tax fraud, at least. But this government crony never went to jail. What really happened about Bobby Baker, Senator Williams still asks.

The weaknesses of government cannot properly be used to make the unacceptable acceptable.

Here's another Williams sample:

Washington's $122 million Sam Rayburn Building, finally finished four years late, is a super-extravagant monument to political patronage. Containing seven million pounds of white marble, it houses our Congressmen at a building cost of $221,000 a head. Oh, mama mia!

The preposterous contract, you may recall, was given to Philadelphia contractor Matthew H. McCloskey, a bigwig political money raiser and insider whom Williams proved had charged his immense political contribution to the building's cost. The investigation recovered it for the taxpaying peasants. But Williams still asks: Why was McCloskey let off? In Greece they say it's better to know the judge than to know the law. But this is America and these are insiders in the U.S. government.

Now Mr. Williams has unearthed another fat cat who wouldn't need to worry about where the money for his political contributions is coming from. We would be paying it.

This Williams sample is a metals miner and dealer. He is a Presidential crony who, with his wife, accompanied LBJ on the President's December flight around the world. Well, simultaneously a routine little bill (HR 5789) was floated through the House. It was done merely by voice vote.

It authorized the General Services Administration to dispose of 115,000 troy ounces of national stockpiled metal. Instead of competitive bidding, the little bill directed the GSA to negotiate a price with his firm and another.

The metal's competitive market value is around $214 an ounce. That is $100 an ounce higher than the negotiated price. The profit to the political fat cat figured about $12 million.

Outraged Senator Williams has been insisting that if anyone should make a $12 million windfall from the sale of surplus metals it should be us taxpayers and not a fat-cat contributor and Presidential crony. No wonder our tax money disappears like butter into hot toast.

In the Senate outraged Williams added an amendment to the House bill that requires competitive bidding. And surprise, surprise, this has killed little HR 5789.

Meanwhile, the equally outraged General Accounting Office officials, charged with inspecting government agencies' spending, have found nearly countless shockers in the Defense Department. But who would know it?

The current $69.9 billion defense bill is the largest single apropriation in the history of the United States. Yet Federal Budget Director Charles J. Zwick admitted on September 23 that the Defense Department is understating its spending by $7.3 billion. How much is really needed?

The department spends an incredible $45 billion a year on procurement. It employs some 5,500 persons solely for this. Yet only 14 per cent of the contracts given out are by competitive bidding; 86 per cent are not.

Some of this is explainable. But the resulting fat yield that comes out of the taxpayers' hides due to noncompetitive bidding, says the GAO report, is at least 25 per cent, or about $6 billion this year. That sum alone, including the cronyism in it, is more than half the entire tax increase forced on us July 1.

Washington is spending on research and development more in 1968 alone than the Federal government has in the total 169 years of our history to, and through, World War II. The Defense Department alone is pouring out $7 billion this year. The GAO finds not only the same shocking lack of competitive bidding but that "almost without exception the projects cost at least twice the original estimates."

Like outraged Senator Williams and the GAO alike, an equally outraged public, told the truth, is the only hope we taxpaying peasants have.

Ten and Twenty Years Ago

Oct. 1, 1948 — Five teacher appointments and the selection of a dental officer were part of the business acted upon at the first meeting for the fall term of the Kingston Board of Education.

A scoreboard was authorized for use in the Kingston Municipal Stadium. Cost was put at $1,840 plus extra charges for any additional work needed to install electric board.

* * *

Oct. 1, 1958 — More than 700 parents attended the open house at Kingston High School in what the school officials called an "encouraging display of parental support."

The state announced a total of $5,487,000 for road work in the Kingston area. The work was to be bidded upon the following month.

Two Kingston teenagers repordly took a Montgomery Ward truck in Kingston loaded with rifles and guns. The two slugged a police officer in their get-a-way.

CHAIRMEN FOR BELL — H. Clark Bell, (C) Republican candidate for the Assembly, is shown with William Davenport, (L) and Raymond Armater who have been appointed chairmen of the Citizens for Bell Committee working for Bell's election to the Assembly. Bell also appointed Joseph Russo of Marlboro as his coordinator in Southern Ulster.

Bell Picks Three to Aid In Campaign

H. Clark Bell, Republican-Conservative candidate for Ulster County assemblyman, today announced the appointment of Raymond Armater and William Davenport as chairmen of the Citizens for Bell Committee.

Bell also announced that Joseph Russo of Marlboro has been named coordinator of the Bell efforts for Southern Ulster and that William West, county legislator from the 12th district, has accepted appointment as coordinator of that district in the Assembly campaign drive for Bell.

Armater, an IBM executive and Davenport, vice president of Walter Davenport and Sons Inc., will coordinate campaign activities throughout the 20 towns and the City of Kingston.

A former 11th Ward alderman for four years, Armater was a member of a number of legislative committees and has served a host of community, civic and health organizations and is a Republican committeeman.

Davenport, a life resident of Ulster County is a former vice president of the Marbletown Republican Club. Also interested in community affairs, he holds membership and has been active in a number of organizations as well as the foreign student exchange program which took him to Australia for two months last year.

Russo, vice president of Pat Russo and Son, apple growers and storage plant operators, is a member of the board of directors of the Farm Bureau as well as the Honor Society of Orange County Community College. He was also town chairman for the Hamilton Fish campaign and is presently chairman of the Town of Marlboro Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee.

West, in accepting the appointment, said he would call a meeting of all GOP leaders in his district shortly so that a uniform and hard-hitting campaign effort can be developed and maintained.

Woolley Raps Rolison's Vote On Pension Plan

A. E. Woolley, Democratic candidate for State Senate, responding to a question on the pension plan at a meeting of the New Paltz Lutheran Church said, "This was a fast one pulled by the 1968 Legislature.

"My opponent, Sen. Jay P. Rolison, who was a freshman in the Senate is equal to three Assembly votes,

"I cannot understand how he could ever justify his affirmative vote.

"Frankly, I cannot see how the voters can justify his position, either," Woolley replied. "I feel the voters are going to express their disapproavl on Nov. 5."

Continuing , he commented, "Rolison pretends his concern for taxation yet he was quick to vote this unfair and excessive pension plan into law. He knew the taxpayers would be the victims but he cared less for them than his own pay check. Anytime a pension plan allows an employe to collect retirement on his expense account or his office stipend there is need for change or correction. The first correction is to replace the men responsible for the law. The voters have that opportunity."

Named to Rolison Election Drive

The appointment of Lawrence A. Quilty as co-chairman for the re-election of State Senator Jay P. Rolison was announced today by Albert Spada, chairman.

Quilty was born in Kingston and graduated from Kingston High School in 1939. He then went on to attend Boston College until the outbreak of World War II.

He served in the U.S. Army for four years with Company A, 301st Infantry, 94th Division, Third Army; received a battlefield commission by command of General George S. Patton, and the Bronze Star and Purple Heart with two Oak Leaf Clusters. He served in the European Theater and received three Battle Stars for Normandy, The Rhineland and the Central European Campaigns, The Combat Infantry Badge, Presidential Unit Citation, the Order of Lafayette and the Military Order of the Purple Heart. He was retired from the U.S. Army as a lieutenant in 1946.

Married to the former Leola Saddlemire, they are the parents of 13 children and reside at 303 Hurley Avenue. In 1946 Quilty entered the insurance field and now owns an agency with offices at 58 Pearl Street.

Quilty is a former president of the Ulster County Chapter of the Reserve Officers Association, the Ulster County Insurance Agents Association, a former vice-president and director of the Chamber of Commerce, former vice-commander of the VFW, a member of the Fourth Degree of the Knights of Columbus and a director and former president of the Kiwanis Club, director of the Rondout National Bank, member of the Board of Benedictine Hospital, a member of the board of New York State College at New Paltz, a member of American Legion, Catholic War Veterans, Disabled Officers Association and Citizens Committee for a Community College in Ulster County.

Wants Group To Put Down George Wallace

Poughkeepsie barber, Joseph Marvella, Liberal candidate for State Senator, today called for a "Non-Partisan Committee Against Disaster", designed to "put down George Wallace."

Claiming the third-party presidential candidate represents a "Clear and present danger to this nation, inasmuch as he's waging a campaign based on fear, hate and racism," Marvella says Wallace is leading voters down a "dead end street."

"Already the man is favored by 22 per cent of the electorrate," said Marvella, adding, "If Wallace continues to lure voters at this rate, the November election may wind up in a three-way tie, with the House of Representatives choosing the next President — conceivably, Wallace himself."

"Increasing numbers of voters are being duped into following Wallace's simplistic, demagogic leadership, when what is actually needed is compassion and understanding to solve the complex social and economic problems we face," Marvella said.

"This man is a menace to all our liberties, "He must be unmasked for what he is a cunning, demagogue of mean gifts and evil intent.

To counter-act Wallace's drive, Marvella said he met during the weekend with "a truly non-partisan group of responsible citizens, consisting of Republicans, Conservatives, Democrats, Liberals and Independents."

Marvella said the "Committee Against Disaster" will, in the very near future, hold a public meeting, at which time officers will be democratically elected to chart the group's course of action."

Skin Divers Who Found Cannons Can Keep Them for Time Being

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Three young Plattsburgh skin divers can keep the pair of 200-year old British cannon they found, at least for the moment.

Dr. Hugh Flick, associate commissioner of cultural education in the State Education Department, said that the state technically owns the guns since they were found at the bottom of navigable New York waters, in the case Lake Champlain.

However, Flick said a change in state law was being discussed to provide money for found objects on the basis of appraised value.

"We won't move in and take them away," Flick said, adding he hoped a "mutually agreeable solution" could be worked out for the guns.

The British-made cannons, manufactured in 1748, were found Sept. 21 by three youths in 15 feet of water in Lake Champlain.

State Historian Dr. Louis L. Tucker said the cannons have not been authenticated and it is not known definitely what ship they came from.

One theory is that they were on the French ship "Muskellunge," which was scuttled in the Plattsburgh area along with two others in 1759.

He said there is existing documentation indicating the "Muskellunge" had two British made brass cannons on board but it is not certain they are the same ones.

State police have been guarding the site on Lake Champlain and the home of one of the youths where the cannons are being kept.

Tucker said Florida had to set up a system of rewards for the discovery of historical objects because the large treasures being found on Florida shores.

"What I personally would like to see set up is a series of rewards for the finders of historical material based on a percentage of the appraised value," he said.

"Our present laws are as murky as some of the waters these divers work in," he said. "It's obvious the law doesn't work and over the years it has been ineffective."

Flick said he hopes whatever is decided on the disposition of the cannons that they stay in the area.

"I think they should stay in the area because they are part of the culture and lore," he said. "There are a dozen different solutions."

Tucker said considerable research must be done to determine which vessel the cannons belonged to. He said it was common practice at the time to remove the cannons from a captured ship and put them on another.

Consumers Want Quality, Not More Chrome in Cars

DETROIT (UPI)—Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., told auto engineers today that consumers were getting tired of chrome-shiny cars designed in such a way that it costs $74 in labor just to replace an $8 part.

In a speech prepared for a Detroit meeting of the American Association of Automotive Engineers, Hart said the Senate subcommittee on antitrust and monopoly had just finished a six-month investigation of the auto repair industry.

The subcommittee, headed by Hart, may hold hearings on the subject later this year.

"Consumers are no longer happy merely to have the biggest, chromiest, coolest car parked in their driveway to the envy of the Jonses," Hart said.

"They are becoming more concerned with quality, durability, dependability, ease of maintenance—in short a very full value for their dollar.

"Most consumers have encountered the situation where the labor bill may be $74 to replace an $8 part. Couldn't this he overcome by design?"

Hart also complained about Detroit auto bumpers designed for show rather than protection, and hidden headlights that may be sleek but cost more to repair.

The subcommittee also may hold hearings to determine whether Americans are overcharged, through price fixing or other methods in the estimated $10 billion a year they pay in auto repair bills.

He is survived by his wife Sharon.

Nixon Resigns From Golf Clubs In New Jersey

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has resigned from several organizations, including a New Jersey golf club that allegedly excluded Negroes and Jews.

An aide said Monday that Nixon announced his resignations in letters sent to the clubs Aug. 8.

Nixon's letter said: "In view of my nomination by the Republican party for the presidency of the United States, I believe it appropriate that I disassociate myself from all organizations and activities not related to the commitment I have accepted for the foregoing nomination."

Nixon had been criticized for his membership in the Baltrusol Golf Club of Springfield, N.J. following a campaign appearance there in July.

At the time Nixon said he did not join or leave clubs because of restrictions. "I attempt to work from within to change those policies," he said. The club maintained that its bylaws do not exclude Negroes or Jews.

Parole Violation

Charged with a parole violation, Beatrice Simmons, 47, of Ellenville, was arrested Monday on a warrant in that community by the State Poice. She was committed to the county jail without bail pending a hearing before the State Parole Board in Poughkeepsie. The woman formerly resided in New York City.

Finch Gives His Platform For 5th Ward

Jack Finch, Democratic candidate for alderman of the new fifth Ward has outlined a tentative platform which he intends to implement if he is elected.

Finch feels the following areas of improvement can be realized;

1. A Teen Corps which would be a teenage ward organization and would mobilize youth toward constructive activities.

2. A direct communication line with voters whereby Finch would periodically poll and spot check the voters to get their opinions on key issues.

3. Improve street lighting which Finch feels is critically advantageous in controlling vandalism and other crimes.

4. Improve recreational facilities at Loughran Park and establish vest pocket parks for youngsters and older folk.

5. Truck routes for express truck traffic such as Rt. 32 traffic over Cornell Street and out Foxhall Avenue could be established.

6. Bus stop benches.

7. Lowlands. The lowlands, off Albany Avenue could be investigated for recreational use or for development thereby increasing the tax base.

8. Clean-up activities such as Esopus Creek.

9. Control taxes by using some creative thinking and gaining active support of ward members in order to accomplish improvements without increase in taxes.

Pair Arrested In Woodstock

Charged with possessing an open bottle of wine in violation of the local ordinance in Woodstock, David Shannon, 22, of Bearsville, and Frankie MacKenzie, 25, formerly of Indiana, who was visiting in the former community, were arrested Monday night.

Chief Constable William Waterous took the two in custody after they were found on the Village Green with a bottle.

Shannon also was cited for harassment on complaint of Charlotte Strassberg, proprietor of the News Shop. The man pleaded innocent to both charges and was committed to the county jail after arraignment before Woodstock Justice Joseph Forno. He was unable to post $400 bail. The case was adjourned until Oct. 9.

The woman pleaded guilty to the ordinance violation relating to possession of an open bottle of alcohlic beverages. Judge Forno fined her $50 and sentenced her to 10 days in the County jail. If she fails to pay the fine she must serve an additional 25 days. Police said the woman has no permanent address.

BISHOP DIES—Bishop Bryan J. Mcentegart, Bishop of Brooklyn until ill health forced his retirement earlier this year, died at his Brooklyn home Monday. He was 75. Doctors listed the cause of his death as a massive coronary thrombosis. Bishop Mcentegart had lain in a coma since suffering a stroke Aug. 28. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Luciun Jenkins Dies, Pastor At Ellenville

Luciun Jenkins, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church in Ellenville, died Friday at Albany Veterans Administration Hospital. He was 48-year-old.

He was born Oct. 17, 1919, in Ohio, the son of the late Luciun and Lelia Lawrence Jenkins. He married the former Gladys Alston, June 6, 1952, at Elkton, Md., and had lived in Ellenville sinc 1958.

He was pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church in Ellenville, and was a member of the Town of Wawarsing Clergymen Association. He was the founder and a member of Beth-El Lodge No. 2, AF and AM, and was a veteran of World War II.

He was ordained a minister at Amity Baptist Church, Jamaica, Long Island, in 1958.

Surviving besides his widow are a son, David, at home; three sisters, Mrs. Ida Lewis, Mrs. Juanita Woolbright, and Mrs. Julia Daniels, all of Elyria, Ohio; four foster children, and several nephews and and nieces.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday, at 1 p. m., from the Shiloh Baptist Church in Ellenville and burial will be in Fantinekill Cemetery with the Rev. J. R. Moore, pastor of the Amity Baptist Church, officiating.

Friends may call at the Shiloh Baptist Church today and Wednesday up until the time of the service. A memorial service will be offered at the Beth-El Lodge this evening at 7:30 p. m.

Couple Found Dead

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A man and his wife are dead following an apparent murder and suicide in their home in the suburban town of Perinton, Monroe County Sheriff's deputies say.

The couple, the parents of five, were found on the floor of the kitchen of their home Monday by the two youngest children when they returned home from school.

Detective Lt. Michael Cerretto of the Sheriff's office said the husband, Laurence E. Ellsworth, 36, died of a shotgun wound and his wife Joyce, 33, suffered multiple stab wounds.

Burns Fatal

Women Protest, Want to Sit In Syracuse Bar

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Several women say they will demonstrate for the right to sit at the bar in the Hotel Syracuse.

The hotel does not serve unescorted women at the bar of its Rainbow Lounge.

Mrs. Karen DeCrow, president of the local chapter of the National Organization for Women, said about two dozen women will picket Thursday to get the hotel to change its policy. Some of the women will try to sit at the bar during the protest, she said.

Mrs. DeCrow argued that, if women are equal under the law, "they should be able to do what men can do under comparable circumstances."

Spencer Wallace, hotel manager, said that "I think with all of the poor unfortunate youngsters around, these women could put their time to better use than parading around the front of the bar."

Farmers Received More Money But Operating Costs Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's index of prices paid to farmers for their products jumped six points last month, but another rise is operating costs dampened the increase.

The Agriculture Department's monthly report on farm prices issued Monday showed that the index of prices farmers received rose to 267 per cent of its 1910-14 base period during the month that ended Sept. 15.

The increase was due largely to strong seasonal gains in egg and milk prices, but was partially offset by lower prices for cattle, soybeans and chickens.

The mid-September price index of 267 compared with 261 in August, 253 a year earlier and the record of 313 in February 1951.

The index of prices farmers pay for goods and services rose two points to a record 356 per cent at mid-September, compared with 354 in August and the previous high of 355 in July.

Farm prices received as a whole reflected 75 per cent of parity, the price goal of federal farm programs, up from 72 per cent in August and a year earlier.

The adjusted parity index, which includes government payments to farmers, was 81 per cent, compared with 79 a month earlier and in September last year.

Egg prices at mid-September averaged 42.7 cents a dozen, up 8.6 cents from August—or a 25 per cent gain, the department said. The average increase from August to September is four per cent.

Prices farmers receive for bottling milk averaged $5.93 a hundredweight at mid-September, 21 cents higher than for August and 26 cents more than a year earlier. Milk used for manufacturing averaged $4.30 a hundredweight, 12 cents more than in August and 24 cents more than a year earlier.

Rockefeller Is Rebuked By Public Employees Group

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Two arch rivals in the public employes field sent a joint telegram Monday to Gov. Rockefeller, rebuking him for not attending a two-day State Conference on Equal Opportunity in Public Service here.

Dr. Theodore C. Wenzel, president of the Civil Service Employes Association, and Al Wurf, executive director of State Employes Council 50, held a news conference with officials of other participating organizations at the motel where the meeting was held.

Wenzel said their main concern was "the failure of more than a handful of policy makers" to meet with the more-than-300 persons gathered there for workshops on the problem of racial balance in state service.

A spokesman for Rockefeller pointed out that Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson gave the keynote address Sunday and represented the governor then.

The spokesman said that among other state officials participating in the conference were Mrs. Ersa Poston, president of the State Civil Service Commission, Robert Mangum, commissioner of human rights, and Charles Lanigan, a commissioner in the Office of Planning Coordination.

Wenzl said they had expected commissioners, deputy commissioners and top agencys' heads. "We could have gotten our answers first hand from the key people. Instead, we end up talking to ourselves," he said.

Others participating in the news conference were: Shirley Brown, president of the New York State Careerist Society Inc., Joseph Rodriguez, president of the Grand Council of Hispanic Society in Civil Service Inc., and Jeffrey Greenup, chairman of the Citizens Committee for Equal Opportunity in Public Employment.

The telegram sent to Rockefeller said, in part, "We collectively call upon you to meet with our joint committee immediately to pursue the all-important work left undone by your absence."

The governor had said in a statement last week, "I am sure some solid, positive recommendations will emerge from this conference to help correct any racial imbalance that may exist in state service."

Regents Board To Decide Fate Of Two Cannons

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (UPI) —A State Board of Regents committee today decides who will be the owners of two 18th Century British cannon found in Lake Champlain.

State police have been guarding the artillery since it was found Sept. 22 by three young divers.

The brass cannons, apparently from a British war ship that once sailed on the lake, bear the date 1748 and weigh about 2,500 pounds each. They were found by three boys skin diving last Saturday.

State Historian Louis Tucker said the find is significant and that there may be more remains of the vessel in the water.

Several divers showed up at the spot where the German-made guns were hidden about 100 yards from shore Saturday, but the state police guard turned them all away.

Three anchors and a musket were also recovered from the spot in about 20 feet of water.

Red China Marks 20th Maoist Year

TOKYO (AP) — Red China celebrated the start of its 20th year under Mao Tse-tung's Communist rule today with Mao appearing at a giant rally and the press announcing a new purge to "firmly clean out" his enemies.

The new "purifying" purge comes on top of Mao's 26-month-old Great Cultural Revolution purge, which has set off bloody factional clashes in many parts of China.

The 74-year-old Communist party chairman and his chosen heir, Defense Minister Lin Piao, received thunderous applause as they appeared on the high red walls of the Gate of Heavenly Peace Square in Peking. Japanese correspondents estimated half a million persons were in the square.

For the second year in a row, Mao's chief enemy, President Liu Shao-chi, was absent from the ceremonies. Also missing was party General Secretary Teng Hsiao-ping and many now-disgraced backers of Liu and Teng.

An editorial in the People's Daily, the Liberation Army Daily and the theoretical journal Red Flag said they had been "overthrown" and "that part of the power of leadership which they usurped" had been taken back. This suggested they may still retain party membership but have lost other posts.

The editorial announced the new purge to purify the ranks of the 17-million member party. It said "the renegades, enemy agents, and all other counter-revolutionaries against whom there is unquestionable proof as well as the die-hard capitalist roaders must be firmly cleaned out."

Congressional Candidate's Son Killed in Viet

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Defense Department Monday reported the son of a Democratic congressional candidate from the 32nd District among five upstate New York soldiers killed in Vietnam.

Marine Lance Cpl. Anthony J. Montoya Jr., 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Montoya Sr., 300 Ochab Drive, Rome, was killed in action. The senior Montoya, a member of the Oneida County Board of Legislators, is opposing Rep. Alexander Pirnie, R-N.Y. and Conservative Albert J. Bushong for the congressional seat.

Others killed in action included: Army Pfc Nicholas P. Lesando Jr., husband of Mrs. Joyce A. Lesando, 11 Grand Street, Warwick.

Army Sgt. Lawrence W. Breitnitz, husband of Mrs. Barbara J. Breitnitz, RD 2, Schenevus.

Marine Cpl. Andrew T. Bukovinski, husband of Mrs. Andrew T. Bukovinski, P.O. Box 25, Russell.

Died not as a result of hostile action was Marine Pfc Richard Davis Jr., son of Mrs. Cassie Dennis, 208 Washington Street, Mount Vernon.

No Solution For Peace From New Ambassador

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. R. Wiggins, President Johnson's choice as ambassador to the United Nations, says he has no solution for peace in Vietnam but defends the United States' right to be there.

Wiggins, former editor and executive vice president of the Washington Post, said in testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Monday the goal of the Vietnam war is to let the South Vietnamese select "the type and character of the government under which they wish to live."

Asked by Committee Chairman Sen. J. William Fulbright for suggestions on how to achieve peace, Wiggins said: "I simply do not have a solution for the war in Vietnam."

Will Charge 6 Prisoners With Murder

SAIGON, (UPI)—Six of 11 Negro prisoners staging a passive rebellion at Long Binh stockade will be charged with murder or conspiracy to commit murder, informed military sources said today.

The charges stem from the death of a white soldier Aug. 30, the night a racial riot erupted in the jail. The soldier, a resident of Florida, was fatally beaten with a shovel, authorities said.

Military police, firing tear gas, quelled the riot which resulted in the soldier's death and injuries to 65 persons, including five guards. Most of the injuries were caused by prisoners fighting among themselves.

Following the trouble, about 200 Negro inmates refused to obey any orders and were segregated, authorities said. Their number shrank to 11, and guards entered only to deliver C-rations.

APPEALS TO PEKING—Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, the leader of the secessionist Nigerian region of Biafra, has appealed to Communist China for help in the war with Nigeria and against "Anglo-American imperialism and Soviet revisionism", it was disclosed Sunday. The appeal for help came as federal Nigerian forces closed in on Umuahia, the last major stronghold of the breakaway eastern region. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Terrorists Break into Rocky's Pad

VALENCIA, Venezuela (UPI)—Government authorities were hunting for guerrillas who took over the hacienda belonging to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

The national news agency, INNAC said four men disguised as government soldiers held caretakers hostage for about six hours Friday night and Saturday at Rockefeller's Hacienda Montesacro in Carabobo State, about 125 miles west of Caracas.

According to the INNAC account of police reports, the four guerrillas gained access to the property by telling caretakers they were government soldiers hunting terrorists.

After farm workers on the estate discovered two of the men painting anti-government slogans on walls of a building, INNAC said, the four rounded up hacienda personnel at gunpoint, forced them to open a safe containing an undisclosed amount of money and fled.

While Miss Wilson teaches kindergarten, her Savings Bank account may be helping students go to college.

How so? Miss Wilson (and millions like her, probably including you) saves in a Savings Bank.

This earns her the consistently high interest-dividends Savings Banks are so justly famous for.

But how does her account help students go to college? Here's how. Savings Banks, as people banks, put their depositors' savings to work mainly in people projects. And what is more of a people project than helping people get an education?

Low-interest student loans made by New York State Savings Banks now total well over $100-million, and they've helped over 100,000 students through college.

Savings Bank student loans are an important example of what Savings Banks do with Miss Wilson's—and your—savings. And what Savings Banks do tells what Savings Banks are: people banks, specialists in personal banking. Banks that exist to serve people at every stage of family life.

SAVINGS Savings Banks are people banks.

Hazards of Smoking Explored by Council

Guest speaker at the first meeting of the newly formed Ulster County Inter-Agency Council on the Hazards of Smoking was Dolores Floss, coordinator of the New York State Interagency Committee on Smoking.

Miss May Evans, director of pupil personnel services at Saugerties Central School acted as chairman pro-tem at the meeting which followed luncheon at Leherb's Restaurant Thursday. Participating in the discussion were representatives of the three agencies sponsoring the council—Donald E. Sweeney, board member, Mid-Hudson Heart Association; Mrs. Walter Yaeger, public ducation chairman, American Cancer Society and Edward R. Crosby, Ulster County TB and Health Association, board member.

The local council, an affiliate of the New York State Committee on Smoking Hazards, seeks to organize, develop and implement effective plans and programs with schools and other community groups, aimed at combatting and eventually controlling smoking as a health hazard.

More than two-third of the membership were present at the luncheon. They were the Rev. William A. Studwell, Kingston Council of Churches; Rabbi Harry Z. Schectman, Congregation Ahavath Israel; Sister Mary Charles, Administrator, Benedictine Hospital; Miss Mary Finger, Assistant Administrator, Kingston Hospital; Evald Bors-Koefoed, Administrator, Ellenville Community Hospital; Mrs. Florence Irwin, chairman, Nursing Education, Ulster County Community College; Miss Helen Geneis, director of Public Health Nursing, Ulster County.

Also, Robert W. Reip, Hercules Industrial Engineering Department; Mrs. William Eichhorn, Assistant Director, Taconic Area P-TA; Mrs. George Kopf, nurse-teacher, Wallkill Central School; Dr. Harold Snyder, superintendent, Onteora Central School; Mrs. Robert Davidson, nurse-teacher, Highland Elementary School; Mrs. Naomi DeAlissio, director of health education, Ellenville Central School; Fred Siether, director of physical education, Saugerties High School; Leon Greenberg, Board of Cooperative Educational Services; James Lapak, physical education instructor, YMCA; Miss Frances Maxwell, executive director, YWCA; Thomas Atkins, agent, Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H; Alexander MacDonald, director, Rip Van Winkle Council Boy Scouts; Mrs. Nina V. Siegel, president, Ulster County Council Girl Scouts;

Also, the executive directors of the three sponsoring agencies, Miss Katherine Bower, Heart Association; E. Robert Johnson, TB and Health Association, and Mrs. Paul Wendrow, American Cancer Society.

After reviewing the by-laws, section-by-section, it was voted upon. A nominating committee was appointed and organization charts were distributed. The next meeting was set for Oct. 29, at which time development of organizational structure for programming in Ulster County will be of primary importance.

Representatives on the Council not able to attend the luncheon were: Prof. George Carter, New Paltz University; Melvin Mones, chairman of health committee, Ulster County Board of Legislators; Robert Malone, public relations department of IBM; Sherman Wilbur, principal, Rondout Valley Central School; Robert Robinson, principal, Wallkill Central School; Paul Georgini, supervising principal, Marlboro Central School; Warren Russell, audio-visual director, Kingston Schools Consolidated; Herman Wilcox, science department, Saugerties Central School; Dr. William Pugliese, school physician, New Paltz Central School; the Rev. Joseph J. McCarthy, superintendent of John A. Coleman Catholic High School; Henry Hopper, BOCES director; Henry Stubbs, executive director YMCA.

NEW COUNCIL—The newly formed Ulster County Inter-Agency Council on the Hazards of Smoking got off to a flying start with its first luncheon meeting discussion last week. Discussing plans are (l-r) Donald E. Sweeney, Mid-Hudson Heart Association board member; Dolores Floss, coordinator of the New York State Interagency Committee on Smoking, guest speaker; Miss May Evans, director of pupil personnel services, Saugerties Central School, chairman pro-tem; Mrs. Walter Yeager, public education chairman, American Cancer Society, and Edward R. Four Upstate Servicemen Dead in Viet WASHINGTON (AP) — Four more servicemen from Upstate New York have been killed in the Vietnam war.

The Defense Department released a casualty list Monday that included the names of:

Army Sgt. Lawrence W. Breitnitz, husband of Mrs. Barbara J. Breitnitz of Schenevus.

Army Pfc. Nicholas P. Lesando Jr., husband of Mrs. Joyce A. Lesando of Warwick.

Marine Cpl. Andrew T. Burkovinski, husband of Mrs. Andrew T. Bukovinski of Russell.

Marine Lance Cpl. Anthony J. Montoya Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony J. Montoya Sr. of Rome.

Drivers Hurt, One Cited in Ulster Crash

Two motorists were injured Monday night in a two-car traffic mishap on Route 9W in the Town of Ulster, and one was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

In Benedictine Hospital in fair condition today is Robert M. Kershaw, 18 of Hurley, who, according to sheriff's deputies suffered head, knee and wrist injuries.

Deputy Robert Jordan issued a summons to Kershaw for failure to yield the right of way. The citation is returnable before Town of Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly.

The other driver, Kenneth Rachels, 27 of Lake Katrine was treated and released from Kingston Hospital. He suffered head injuries. Doctors Ambulance took the injured to the hospital. Ulster Hose Company volunteers were called to wash the gasoline from the highway.

Deputy Jordan said Rachels was proceeding north on Route 9W, started to turn into Carrols Hamburger Shop when in collision with the Kershaw vehicle traveling south. The mishap occurred at about 10:40 p. m.

Modena Death Ruled Suicide

Ulster County Coroner William S. Keyser today issued a verdict of suicide after investigating with Kingston state police the death by gunshot wound of Harry Ivan Roosa, 59, of Route 44-55 in the Town of Plattekill community of Modena.

Roosa apparently shot himself with a 16-gauge shotgun in the left chest as he sat on a bed in his room of the residence where he lived with his brother.

Coroner Keyser said the exact time of the shooting had not been determined.

Authorities said Roosa had been despondent recently as he worried over a health condition.

The victim's brother, Richard, told investigators that he heard his brother in the house when he went to work Monday morning. Later when he returned home he found his brother dead on the bed.

The dead man was a veteran of World War II.

Coroner Keyser ordered the body removed to the Sutton Funeral Home. State Police BCI Investigator Joseph Franke investigated with the coroner.

Police Arrest Two Youths

Two Kingston youths were arrested Monday afternoon by city police on charges of criminal trespass, third degree, and later they were booked on charges of glue sniffing.

Police records listed the pair as Louis Charles Hasbrouck, 18, who gave his address as 116 Hooker Street, and Andrew M. Ramage, 20, of Furnace Street.

Authorities said the accused were arrested on railroad property near the underpass. They were scheduled for an appearance before City Judge Hubert A. Richter.

GM
MARK OF EXCELLENCE

Putting-you-firsts:

(A quick tour of some of the thoughtful new features the 1969 Chevrolets offer that other cars in Chevrolet's field don't.)

Headlight washers

You push the windshield washer knob and hold it, and what happens?

Your headlights come clean.

Fluid is diverted to two jet nozzles at each light lens. (Outer lights only on duals.)

The spray is strong. It removes up to 80% of accumulated dirt.

The feature is standard on 1969 Corvettes.

It comes with the hidden headlights available on Camaro, Caprice and Kingswood Estate Wagons.

It is available on all other models except Corvair.

Be the first on your block.

Heated glass

In a moment your rear window will self-defrost.

Because we've built onto it a network of tiny ceramic strips capable of heating the entire surface.

Fog and frost disappear quickly and quietly.

You just flick a switch.

The heated rear window is available on the 1969 Caprice Coupe and Impala Custom Coupe.

Pushbutton tire chains

This is ingenious, if we do say so ourselves.

You press a button on the instrument panel and the rear tires get a shot of "liquid tire chain."

You spin your wheels once, wait a moment, and you're off—with traction you wouldn't believe possible on slick ice, or packed snow.

A pressurized container sits up under each rear wheelhousing, and holds about 15 applications.

Which could get you through several winters in some parts of the country.

(Several weeks in others.)

Available on all 1969 big Chevrolets.

Steering wheel lock

When you own a car as desirable as the 1969 Chevrolet, you don't take chances.

When you leave it, you lock it

Not just the doors.

You lock the ignition, steering wheel and transmission lever, too.

Our new lock on the steering column takes care of all that.

So even if somebody manages to break in and cross the wires, he'll have a hard time going anywhere.

Standard on all 1969 Chevrolets, Chevelles, Chevy Novas, Camaros and Corvettes.

Sorry, car thieves.

Power steering plus

The 1969 Caprice, Impala and Camaro are available with a new type of power steering.

Variable-ratio power steering.

What it does is give you faster steering with fewer turns of the wheel.

And with no increase in effort on your part.

(And without giving up that nice firm feel on straightaways.)

Variable-ratio power steering is particularly helpful in short, full turns.

And parking becomes unbelievably easy. You'll see.

Walk-in wagons

The tailgate swings open like a door on most of our 1969 station wagons.

Which in itself is no big deal.

But wait, there's more.

We've built a concealed step into the rear bumper.

You simply step up, over, and in.

(The way we build our wagons, you can do it without bumping your head, and without acrobatics.)

Walk into a wagon soon at your Chevrolet dealer's.

Boys Club Part of Chest Family - 'Home Away From Home' for 300

READY FOR 20TH YEAR—Two members of the Kingston Boys Club install a sign at the club house as the club readies for its 20th anniversary of serving area young boys. A member of the Ulster County Community Chest, the Boys Club serves as "home away from home" for more than 300 youngsters of the area. (Photo by Kruh)

Got a boy at home who says he has nothing to do? Send him to the Kingston Boys Club. That's the advice of the club's executive director John Holochuck.

Going into its 20th year in Kingston, the club serves as what Holochuck calls "a home away from home" for more than 300 boys of the area. Affiliated with the Boys' Clubs of America, it is located in a series of duplex houses on Greenkill Avenue.

Most are city boys, according to the director, but "a few" do come from the surrounding areas such as Ulster. Once they are together, he says, they are "just boys."

The boys are able to use the club most every weekday during the afternoon and evening hours, he adds. Although the programs are conducted in "teams" or classes, the boys are allowed to be individual in what they would like to do.

"It's their club," said Holochuck recently, it is a place they can call their own. The boys are with those of their own age group in what he called a "Boy World."

If it is the boys' club, they have tangible evidence in the facilities and organization. The club building itself was put together with the work of many of the youngsters. A tall chicken wire fence in the back of the building that surrounds what will be basketball - recreational courts was put up by some of the older boys.

Supervisors working with the boys are former club members. One, a Physical Education student at Ulster County Community College, works with the boys and was a member of the club before he graduated from high school. He is presently under a "Work Study" program at UCCC.

Part of 'Winning Beat'

A member of the Ulster County Community Chest's "Winning Beat" Fund Drive, the club derives more than 75 per cent of its operating expenses from the contributions of the public.

The contributions are so important, notes Holochuck, that the club must be flexible enough to reflect the support shown through donations and yet continue to serve the boys of the area.

The boys themselves pay a small annual fee for their membership. For $1 a year—which they can pay in a "lump sum" or in monthly payments of 10 or 20 cents—they are entitled to become members. This does not disturb the "open door" policy of the club, he adds. Boys are allowed to visit the club as often as they wish. "If we see a youngster return again and again," he said, "we ask if he would like to join."

"We are open to any boy who wants to come in," he continued, "and we encourage all boys to participate."

Through the club's activities of sports, hobbies, social fun and music, they strive to help the youngsters. "The Boys Club is not a professional treatment of the individual boy with behavior difficulties," the club officers emphasize, "nor is it just a place 'to take the boy off the street.'"

The informal approach is advised in all activities of the club. There are no formal or compulsory classes or activities, freedom seems to be the byword in the Boys Club.

Recognizing the link between physical fitness and mental fitness the Boys Clubs are active in their support of the President's Council on Youth Fitness.

A "Standard of Accomplishment" program is conducted by the clubs, and members compete with themselves to attain goals established in a variety of sports.

In the Kingston club, boys join in sports and games either inside the club building or across the street on a sports field leased to the City of Kingston by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for $1 a year. The club also operates a summer camp. Last year, according to Holochuck, the club sent some 64 members for a week of camping at the Ulster County 4-H Camp facility which the club rented for two weeks in August.

Other activities of the club include arts and crafts, wood working, and cooking. This last item, notes Holochuck, is popular among the youngsters. Area women come into the club and give cooking classes to groups of four or five boys at a time.

Juvenile Decency Aim

All the activities of the club are designed to do one major thing, according to the director, and that is promotion of juvenile decency. Through example and interest, club leaders guide the boys into creative rather than destructive activities, forming what the late President Hoover called "the greatest character building institution in our country today."

Hoover served as Boys Clubs Board Chairman for 28 years and is the namesake of a memorial fund that has as its goal the establishment of 1,000 clubs to serve the needs of 1,000,000 American boys.

Ulster Part of Area Nutritional Survey

A survey of the nutritional status of 2,080 families in 24 counties including Ulster, Greene, and Orange, will be undertaken by the State Health Department starting Oct. 15, it has been announced by Governor Rockefeller.

A similar survey will be conducted in New York City by the City Health Department, and identical methods of collecting and analyzing data will be used.

Other counties included in the 24-county survey are Cattaraugus, Chautauqua, Chemung, Clinton, Erie, Herkimer, Jefferson, Lewis, Monroe, Niagara, Oneida, Onondaga, Rensselaer, St. Lawrence, Steuben, Schenectady, Suffolk, Sullivan, Tioga, Washington and Westchester.

A trial run to evaluate survey methods and techniques is planned for Oct. 8 to 12 in Delaware County.

The survey in Ulster and the other 23 counties is scheduled to be completed in March, 1969.

The survey is being done under terms of a contract with the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and is part of the National Nutrition Survey mandated by Congress in 1967, when it directed HEW to study the prevalence and location of severe hunger and malnutrition and related health problems, and to make recommendations for dealing with such conditions.

Nationally, the survey should provide previously unavailable systematic information on the people's nutritional status, with emphasis on possible problem areas of the nation.

Plans for the upstate survey were developed by Dr. I. Jay Brightman, deputy commissioner for Medical Services and Research; Dr. John H. Browe, director of the Bureau of Nutrition, and Dr. William Kaufman, director of Diagnostic Laboratory Affairs.

Using methods established by the Nutrition Program, National Center for Chronic Disease Control, U.S. Public Health Service, the 24 survey counties were selected and 104 census enumeration districts were selected within the counties. Later, 20 households will be chosen from each enumeration district.

Because the success of the survey the willing participation of the selected households, a four-person advance party will visit each county three to four weeks before the actual survey. The party will consult with professional and community leaders, and will seek their support and advice on how best to make the initial contact with the selected households to secure their participation. A basic household questionnaire will be completed at this time.

In the survey itself, a central community location will be used, and transportation will be available to participants. All household members will receive a physical and dental examination, body measurements will be made and medical histories will be taken. The main survey team will include about 20 professional and technical personnel — physicials, dentists, nutritionists, dietians and technicians — under the direction of Dr. Donald M. Watkins.

In one-half the households, a detailed dietary evaluation will be made. It will determine family meal patterns and use of medically prescribed diets, and will obtain information on food purchasing and preparation, and the frequency of intake of selected food groups. Estimates will be made of the foods prepared and eaten at home by all members of the household in the previous 24 hours.

In these households, individual 24-hour recalls of foods eaten will be obtained for all children up to 36 months of age; in the remaining one-half of the households, individual 24-hour recalls will be obtained for each man and woman 60 or older.

Also, individual 24-hour dietary recalls will be obtained in all households from all pregnant or nursing women, all boys aged 12 o 16 years, and all girls aged 10 to 16 years.

Of the households in which a detailed dietary evaluation is made, one-half (or one-quarter of the total households in the survey) will have a comprehensive biochemical evaluation done for each individual. This will also be done for all pregnant or lactating women and all children up to 36 months old in all the households surveyed. urinalysis and blood test will be made for all participants.

The State Health Department Division of Laboratories and Research in Albany will process the specimens.

Adult Class Is Scheduled on Consumer Help

The Adult Education Department of the Kingston City Schools is offering a course in Consumer Economics.

The course will consist of an overview of the economics involved in controlling household finances. Throughout the course emphasis will be placed on practical information needed by the consumer to maximize his purchasing power as he interacts with the general economy.

Class members will be encouraged to participate in selecting weekly discussion topics. A few of the topics offered for discussion include: The cost of credit; consumer protection laws and agencies; the many ways of paying a bill; borrowing money.

The course will commence when 15 persons have registered and classes will meet once per week for ten weeks thereafter. Registration may be made in person or by telephoning the office of the Director of Adult Education in the Vocational Building of the High School.

MRS. THOMAS VALEO
(Bachrach photo)

Walker-Valeo

Our Lady Chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York was the setting for the marriage of Miss Lois Lamont Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Riley Walker of Yardley, Pa., to Thomas Valeo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Valeo of Kingston, on Saturday, Sept. 28.

The Rev. Robert Moher celebrated the Nuptial Mass.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a candlelight silk faille gown styled with an empire bodice which was accented with Venise lace. The full sleeves were deeply cuffed with matching lace. A bonnet headpiece of lace was attached to her silk illusion veil and she carried a nosegay of miniature carnations, white roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. John R. Geisel Jr. of Havelock, N. C. was matron of honor. She wore a rust colored velvet skirt, a pale ivory satin, long sleeved, deeply cuffed blouse and a satin cummerbund. A bow served as her headpiece and she carried a bouquet of beige and rust chrysanthemums.

James G. Valeo of New York was best man for his brother. Ushers were Ralph Moseley of New York and Abel Garraghan of Kingston.

After the wedding a reception was held at the Manhattan Club of the Barclay Hotel in New York.

Mrs. Valeo is a graduate of Pennsbury High School, Yardley, Pa., and Syracuse University. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Syracuse University, is an executive officer of USS Keywadin, stationed at Boston, Mass.

After a wedding trip to Martha's Vineyard, Mr. and Mrs. Valeo will reside in Boston, Mass.

Hospital Auxiliary Will Observe 75th Anniversary Here

From the Ladies Aid Society of 1894 to the volunteer of today, the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, second oldest in the State of New York, opened its fall meeting with a tribute to the 75 years of dedicated work and with projection into the future to meet the growing needs of its hospital in both volunteer service and fund raising.

Mrs. Harold Finkle, president, and Mrs. Karl Pitcock, director of volunteers, cognizant of the perennial problems that face auxiliaries today in the field of recruitment, stressed the need to bring the hospital story to the community at large; to seek out those who have never been involved and to encourage them to contribute their time and their talents as volunteers.

On Tuesday, Oct. 15, the board of Trustees of the Kingston Hospital will honor the auxiliary on their 75th anniversary with a luncheon in the crystal room of the Governor Clinton Hotel.

To keep abreast with the current needs of hospitals as related to auxiliaries, members of the auxiliary were sent to both the spring and fall sessions of the 70th annual meeting of the American Hospital Association in Atlantic City. Those attending were the Mmes. Harold Finkle, Richard Kalish, Karl Pitcock, Kay Shivery, and Dominic Cioni.

A full agenda was presented by the president, Mrs. Harold Finkle, on activities in the auxiliary for the coming year. All themes will be in keeping with the 75th anniversary. Mrs. Seymour Semilof, chairman of the card party to be held in October, spoke on the plans for this coming event. Mrs. Arthur Hazenbush, chairman, with co-chairmen Mrs. Elbert MacFadden and Mrs. Lawrence Siewers, gave a report on some of the plans formulated for the auxiliary follies to be held in May.

Harry Thayer, chairman of the Board of Station WGHQ, guest speaker, paid tribute to the dedicated women of the community but stressed the need for more help in all phases of community life to the aged, the ill and underprivileged. "If a community is to be aware of its problems, there must be more participation on the part of every citizen," he said.

Five members of the auxiliary will attend the southeastern regional auxiliary meeting in East Chester, N. Y., on Oct. 17.

New members introduced were the Mmes. Ernest Bell, Harold Brewer, Addison Croswell, Arthur Davis Jr., William Gaffken, John Gotelli, Alexander McKittrick, Joseph McNierney, Martin Nilan, William Paulus, Alma Pfrommer, Robert Pixley, Faye Stewart, Daniel Smith, Francis Vogt, George Washburn, Richard Winters, Jessie Wolfersteig, Theodore Wright, Normal Rafalowsky, Kay Lacey, Raymond Gardeski, Paul Allen, Miss Katherine Bower.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Raymond Armater, Mrs. Karl Pitcock and Mrs. Richard Rochford.

MRS. DOMINICK A. BONGIORNO
(Lakeside Studio)

Cecala-Bongiorno

Miss Josephine Eleanor Cecala, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Anthony Cecala of 103 Overbaugh Street, Saugerties, became the bride of Dominick Anthony Bongiorno, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bongiorno of 105-07 80th Street, Ozone Park, on Saturday, Sept. 21, at St. Mary's of the Snow Church in Saugerties.

The Rev. John F. Hamilton officiated at the double ring ceremony and celebrated the nuptial Mass. The Papal blessing was bestowed upon the couple. Mrs. Charles Dickman, organist, accompanied Mrs. Mildred Ricciardi, aunt of the bride, who sang traditional wedding selections. Vases and baskets of white and peach pompons and white gladioli decorated the altar. The bride dedicated a white rose with satin streamers at the Blessed Mother's altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a modified cage style gown of silk organza over a sheath gown. The yoke and sleeves were fashioned of peau d'ange lace and her skirt featured a deep lace border. The peacock train was cathedral length with three deep borders of the same lace. Her full length mantilla was edged with matching lace and draped to a pillbox headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis with ivy.

Mrs. Charles R. Scrodanus of Saugerties was matron of honor for her sister. She wore a cage style gown of peach colored chiffon. The cowl neckline and front of the gown featured silk braid trim and she wore a matching Dior bow of braid with a four tiered floor length veil. She carried a nosegay of peach, orange and bronze sweetheart roses, miniature carnation and pompons.

Attendants were Joann Ricciardi of Long Island, Rose Cecala of Camden, N. J., Marsha Sdeo of Bronx, Dianne Montesano of Albany, Linda York of Highland, Connie Moschella of Ozone Park, and Karen Navara of Kingston, all cousins of the bride. Their melon d'or gowns were styled identically to that of the honor attendant and they carried nosegay bouquets.

Miss Elizabeth Guida, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She carried a basket of orange sweetheart roses and peach carnations.

Jerry Giordano of Richmond Hill was best man. Ushers were Jack Guida and Joseph Guida, nephews of the bridegroom, of Ozone Park; Andrew Bongiorno, cousin of the bridegroom; Richard O'Donnell of Richmond Hill; Dan Capone of Richmond Hill; Cosmo Mahincro, and Charles R. Scrodanus Sr. of Saugerties, brother-in-law of the bride. Charles R. Scrondanus Jr. of Saugerties, the bride's godchild, was ringbearer.

After the wedding a reception for 150 guests was held at the Capri '400' in Port Ewen.

For her wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania the bride wore an oyster white walking suit with antique brown accessories.

The bride is a graduate of the Academy of St. Ursula and has been employed in the credit sales department of Sears Roebuck Company, Kingston. Her husband, an alumnue of John Adams High School in Ozone Park, is employed as a sales representative for Piels Breweries in Brooklyn and is a member of the National Guard, Rainbow Division.

The couple will reside at 107-53 100th Street, Ozone Park.

Miss Sturges at Wilson

Miss Mary Hollister Sturges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Sturges, Leggett Road, Stone Ridge, N. Y., is among 172 new students who arrived this month on Wilson campus to take part in orientation activities prior to the opening of the academic year. The new students included 164 freshmen in addition to eight students who enrolled with advance standing. They came from 15 states, Argentina, Ethiopia, Greece, Iran and Puerto Rico.

Wilson is in Chambersburg, Pa.

Wedding Announced

Miss Ruth Martha Kellogg of Bearsville, N. Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Howard Kellogg of Durham, N. C., exchanged marriage vows with Baldwin Paul Scogna Jr. of Woodstock, son of Mrs. John W. Figley of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., and the late Baldwin Paul Scogna, during a Nuptial Mass celebrated in St. John's Church, West Hurley, on Sept. 21, 1968.

Officating and celebrant of the Mass was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Austin V. Carey, pastor. Mrs. Aleksander Narel of West Hurley, organist and choirmaster, provided traditional wedding music for the occasion.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of peau de soie with a princess front beaded with seed pearls and long fitted lace sleeves. Her detachable cathedral train was accented with hand-clipped chantilly lace. A leaf cap of tulle held her fingertip silk illusion veil. The bride carried a cascade of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Lorraine M. Howe of Kingston served as maid of honor in a full length gown of blue chiffon with a sheath skirt attached to an empire waistline. Her headpiece was a leaf cap with a circlet veil. She carried cascades of pompons and white roses.

Other attendants were Mrs. John Harper of Monaca, Pa., sister-in-law of the bridegroom; Miss Sylvia Jean Gottlieb, Ossining, N. Y.; Miss Susan Carole Sulzycki, Bearsville; and Miss Elizabeth J. Finnison, New York. Their gowns were identical to that worn by the honor attendant except in pale blue. They carried cascades of pompons and white roses with blue ribbon.

MRS. BALDWIN P. SCOGNA JR.
(Lakeside photo)

Patrick Michael Capots of Zelunople, Pa., was best man. Ushers were John William Figley, brother of the bridegroom; E. Howard Kellogg Jr., brother of the bride, Durham, N. C.; Theodore W. Leslie, Woodstock, N. Y.; Peter J. Seredynski, Kingston; and Joseph J. Barberio, Ellwood City, Pa.

A wedding reception was given at Oehler's Mountain Lodge in West Hurley.

The bride is a graduate of Durham High School and received her BS in Physics from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is employed by IBM in the Systems Development Division, Kingston. Her husband is an alumnus of Penn State and earned his MA in Business Administration from New York University. He served with the U. S. Army in Germany two years. Mr. Scogna is also employed by IBM in the Systems Development Division in Kingston.

When Mr. and Mrs. Scogna return from a wedding trip, they will reside in Woodstock.

Arts Center Hosts Federation

The Saratoga Performing Arts Center will be host to the New York Federation of Music Clubs fall board meeting Oct. 11 through 13 in Saratoga Springs.

The Federation of Music Clubs is the largest membership organization in the world. Its members are musicians and laymen interested in furthering the cause of music in the world and providing an opportunity for study and performance to young students and artists. They participate in hundreds of programs in schools, camps, hospitals and organizations, providing scholarships, operating funds, and support for a great variety of musical projects.

Registration for the meeting, open to anyone interested, will begin 3 p.m. Friday at the Holiday Inn, with the first meeting scheduled at 4 p.m. At 6:30 they will attend dinner and the races at the Saratoga Raceway.

Saturday, the first meeting is to begin at 9 a.m., with luncheon at 1 p.m. at the Holiday Inn. A conducted tour of the Saratoga Performing Arts Center at 4 p.m. will be followed by a reception given by Miss Susan Yager and Mr. and Mrs. Craig Hankenson. Saturday evening the members will attend the 8:30 p.m. Skidmore College Music Department concert at Filene Hall.

The week-end will conclude at noon, Sunday, Oct. 13. Representatives from cities throughout New York State will be in attendance.

That Mini-Skirt Topic Again

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE, Eng. (UPI)—Why do girls wear mini-skirts?

The reason apparently is so puzzling that a government organization is financing a one-year research project at Newcastle-upon-Tyne University in Northern England to try to find the answer.

"This is a serious attempt to throw light on the whole field of fashion trends," said Dr. Keith Gibbins, 34. He's the lecturer in psychology who got the 1,432 pound ($3,437) grant from the Social Science Research Council to investigate why girls wear what they do.

Most of the money will pay the salary of an American assistant, Tonya Gwynn, 21-year-old social psychology graduate of Springfield, Ohio. Gibbins said she is "enthusiastic about this project." She will help him interview hundreds of girl students and tabulate their answers.

"I want to try to find out to what extent a girl's clothes reflect the image which she wishes to present and the message which she hopes to project," he said.

"A shy girl may deliberately wear a mini-skirt because she wants to give an impression that she is daring.

"The question of sexual attraction comes into it. No doubt the first girls who wore mini-skirts realized that they were making themselves sexually attractive. I hope that we will find out to what extent girls believe that in an extra short skirt they are broadcasting a message.

"I also want to find out if there is any relationship between the type of clothing a young person wears and his or her political beliefs, personal life, likes and dislikes . . . even down to the type of car they like."

Dr. Gibbins, married and the father of two, does not want anyone to think he is preoccupied with girls' skirts. He is studying all facets of fashion.

"I am intrigued by the changes in the length of the skirt," he said.

"In 1947 it dropped to its lowest in recent times and then started up again.

"I do not believe that couturiers were responsible for all the changes. They would like to bring skirts down because they serve the not-so-young woman.

"How is it, then, that the skirt moves up to unprecendented heights? Is it because girls want to present an image of being bold as well as young? And if that was the motive among the girls who led this fashion, is it still the outlook of the girls who preserve the fashion with such enthusiasm? These are some of the questions which we hope to answer."

Dr. Gibbins is to examine the relationship between girls' choice of fashions and their behavior, whether their conduct is likely to change if they put on daring gear, whether they chose particular outfits to give themselves confidence or authority.

"Psychology comes into it, when you consider the case, for example, of a teacher who asks her friend, 'Would you say that this is the kind of dress a 22-year-old teacher would never wear?'"

Mini-skirts aside, Dr. Gibbins will also investigate the plunging neckline.

"That will come into the picture when we review trends back to 1945," he said.

"No one has discovered why, when one end is exposed, the other end is generally covered up. In the 1950s, when the neckline plunged, skirts were longer."

GOP Women Meeting

A group of Woodstock Republican women will meet at the home of Mrs. John Eagan, 25 Juniper Lane, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

The purpose of the meeting is to have an informal round table discussion about the 1968 political issues.

All women of Woodstock, regardless of political affiliation, are invited to attend.

Scheduled to speak on the issues of the campaign are Mrs. Rose LeFever, vice chairman, Ulster County Republican Committee, and Mrs. Dorothy Caunitz of Kingston.

Hostesses will be Adele Longendyke and Peggy Egan.

Miss Julia Lane of 8 Barmann Avenue, Kingston, will attend the conference and will participate as Past Department President and may be contacted for detailed information regarding local programs or attendance at the conference.

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

Before tackling that dreaded floor waxing job next time (if you don't own a wax applicator), take just a few minutes to do the following. You'll be pleasantly surprised at the results.

Stitch up a tubular mitt of some soft, sturdy cloth for each hand. (Terry cloth would be fine, but I happened to use the long sleeves of a discarded cotton knit dress.)

Slip the mitts over your rubber-gloved hands and secure them loosely at the wrists with rubber bands.

Now, saturate the palms and fingertips of the mitts with liquid wax. Then while on your knees, you can apply the wax with both hands maintaining perfect balance. This makes the job fast and easy.

When the mitts run out of wax just pour some on the floor and wipe away again.

Why not at least try my way next time when waxing must be done? I bet you can polish your floors in half the time. I do.

And another thing, you can kill two birds with one stone if you like.

For those (like myself) who keep promising to do some waist exercises, you can get it while doing this job. Just squat down with feet tucked under and sway from the waist, side to side while applying the wax. You can almost feel that waistline melt away!

How about that?

Letter of Laughter

Dear Heloise:

Just read the hint which said that the second wife usually has it the easiest.

"Tain't necessarily so. She sometimes works harder — to help pay the alimony!

* * *

Dear Heloise:

Haven't you ever asked yourself, "How long have I had this coat?" or "When did we buy this refrigerator?"

If you will tape your part of the guarantee card to the back of the refrigerator, stick a little bit of dated tape inside your coat, or write the date of purchase on the back of your clock, etc., you'll have the info handy.

It's sure worth having, and interesting, too.

Then you can say to your husband, "Look, this coat is five years old! Don't you think I should have a new one?"!

Youth Group Plans Succoth Dance

National Conference of Synagogue Youth held a meeting Sunday, Sept. 29, at the home of the president, Barbara Cohen, at which time flyers were made which will be mailed to more than 100 local Jewish teenagers inviting them to a Succoth dance scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 6, 1 to 4 p.m. at Agudas Achim, 24 West Union Street.

During the dance, the tradition of decorating the succah will be held. Succoth or the Feast of Tabernacles is a festival of thanks for the fall harvest and a commemoration of the desert wanderings of the ancient Israelites as they sought the Promised Land.

Anyone who was not contacted by mail and wishes to celebrate the holiday may contact Robin Pollack, Iris Werbalowski, Barbara Cohen or Debbie Present by Friday.

Future events being planned by the youth group include a regional conclave in Woodridge from Nov. 8 to Nov. 11, and a conclave with the Long Island NCSY Region.

PAIR OF BOMBERS like St. Louis Cardinals' Orlando Cepeda (L) and Tim McCarver (R) normally don't need extra batting practice but they took some in St. Louis yesterday in preparation for World Series opener Wednesday. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Cardinals 8-5 Series Favorites

By ED SAINSBURY
UPI Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Smart money rode with baseball 'know-how'' today in rating the St. Louis Cardinals an 8 to 5 choice not only for the World Series, but also for Wednesday's opening game matching Bob Gibson against Denny McLain.

In making the odds, the speculators ignored McLain's 31-6 won-lost record in favor of the 1.12 earned run average posted for the season by Gibson, the big right-hander of the Cardinals who won 22 games and lost nine.

The "know-how" has to ride with Gibson. He's been a steady star and only a year ago was rated the most valuable player in the World Series, when he won three games and ran his streak of complete game victories in the series to five, tying a record. Gibson is also the only man to win the seventh game of two different world series.

If he can beat McLain, he'll have the Cardinals off and winging toward a second consecutive world championship. If the Redbirds succed, it would be the first time since John Mc Graw's Giants more than 40 years ago that any National League team has won back to back world series.

Speculators, though, might be ignoring McLain's mark at their own risk. The cocky McLain has ben most potent on the road, losing only once this season away from the small confines of Tiger Stadium, and the Cardinals' Busch Stadium may be just the answer for him to beat Gibson.

The Tigers boast a far better slugging record than the Cardinals, 185 home runs to 73, but their bombs came mostly in their home park. Still, they should be able to match the St. Louis slugging in Busch Stadium, despite a .235 team batting average compared to 249 for St. Louis.

Busch Stadium will not be a new experience for McLain since he pitched in the arena in the 1966 All Star game and had no trouble in getting through three scoreless innings against the best hitters the National League could ofer.

Could Muffle Power

Thus the Cardinal power in the big area many be nullified somewhat by McLain's experience and the power which made him the first pitcher since 1934 to win 31 games and the first in the American League with that total since Lefty Grove in 1931. McLain has an earned run average of 1.96.

Wednesday's game could be the first of possibly three classic confrontations between McLain and Gibson. They'll probably meet again in the fourth game in Detroit Sunday and if the series should go seven games, they would be certain rivals for the payoff seventh clash.

Meanwhile, Detroit manager Mayo Smith has nodded at left-hander Mickey Lolich, 17-9, and Earl Wilson, 13-12, to pitch the second and third games. The chances are they'll oppose Nelson Briles, 19-11, and Ray Washburn, a no-hit pitcher who wound up 14-8 for the season, although Steve Carlton, 13-11, also could figure in manager Red Schoendienst's plans.

Both teams will work out today on the Busch Stadium turf with the Cardinals set for a morning drill and the Tigers scheduled for a similar practice in the afternoon.

Tickets at Premium

Then at dusk the tension will prevail and it'll be up to Gibson and McLain to take charge in the first clash of baseball's most important showcase.

Tickets as usual were at a premium for the 50,000 capacity stadium, and there was no question the place will be jammed at the 1 p. m. (CDT) game time. The weather forecast was for clear skies with the temperature in the 70's.

Hotel rooms also were going at premium rates and reservations were a must for a place to sleep. Another handicap for the visiting fans was a partial taxi strike, in which the drivers for two companies pulled off the streets early Monday.

But whatever problems might be thrown up, there'll be a full house when Gibson throws the first ball to the Tiger batting order Wednesday.

Smith's Class Move: Starting Al Kaline

By VITO STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Mayo Smith won't admit but he's made the class move of the 1968 World Series already—and it won't even begin until Wednesday.

The Detroit Tigers' manager is giving Al Kaline a chance to start in the opening game of the World Series.

Kaline played 16 seasons for the Tigers before they finally won the pennant this season—and they literally did it without him.

An early-season injury knocked Kaline out of the lineup and it gave a couple of kids, Mickey Stanley and Jim Northrup, a chance to play regularly.

When Kaline came back off the injury list, he couldn't get back in the outfield—Stanley and Northrup were doing too good a job. Even first base was lost to him when Norm Cash started to hit.

No Complaints

So, Kaline became a parttime player. He never complained about it and he probably was the happiest Tiger when he pinch hit and eventually scored the winning run in the pennant-clinching game. He would up hitting .287 in 102 games.

AL KALINE

If the Tiger manager, then, were playing things on a cold, hard basis, Kaline would be on the bench again when the World Series opens Wednesday.

It would have been tough for Kaline to sit out the game since he's never even seen a World Series, much less played in one. But when the Tigers clinched the pennant, Kaline went to Mayo and told him the kids deserved to play in the series.

Smith, though, didn't take his advice. He experimented with Stanley at shortstop for the last week of the season and then decided to use him there in the series with Northrup moving to center and Kaline going to right.

Denies Sentiment

Smith denies it was a sentimental gesture for Kaline. He claims he did it just to get an extra bat in the lineup.

However, if Kaline had already played in a couple of World Series, it's extremely doubtful Smith would risk an inexperienced player in the critical fielding position like shortstop. If a Stanley error costs the Tigers the game and-or the series, Smith will be left wide open.

Even if the move of Stanley backfires, Mayo Smith did an admirable thing when he made the decision—even if he won't admit it himself.

Deny Racial Prejudice In High School Hassle

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — A football oficials association has denied charges that some of its members acted with racial prejudice in games that involved a high school with a Negro coach.

The Capital District Football Officials Association met Monday after Albert Parker of Gloversville accused officials of continualy ruling against his Fonda High School team in football games. The oficials were motivated by racial prejudice, he said.

Arthur J. Alvarez, president of the officials group, said the charges were "wholly without foundation.'

Parker and other persons, including the principal of the Fonda High School, would be asked to meet with the officials tonight, he said.

Alvarez disagreed with Parker about a play in Saturday's game in which a Fonda player recovered a fumble by the Canajoharie High School team.

Alvarez said the association was satisfied that a Fonda player had tackled the Canajoharie player after the ball had been declared dead.

Parker, who said there was no whistle ending the play, pulled his team from the field after the incident. Less than two quarters had been played, and Canajoharie was awarded the game as a forfeit.

Parker said the decision was 'the last straw."

"Time and time again over the last three years, the officials have ruled against us and the only reason I can find out is racial prejudice."

A check by a newspaper showed that Fonda was charged with 822 yards in penalties last year and its opponents with 360 yards.

John Boshart, supervising principal of Fonda High School said he understood "completely why Parker did this.'

"'He is a gentleman and he's put up with a lot since he's been here," Boshart said. "I don't know if I would have done the same thing, but I can certainly understand why he did it."

Parker, 26, is the brother of Jim Parker, a former all - pro tackle with the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League.

Yankees Release Rocky Colavito

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Yankees made good on a promise Monday when they asked waivers on Rocky Colavito so that he can decide whether to retire or sign as a free agent with another team.

The Yankees also purchased Jim Rooker, who led the International League with 206 strikeouts in 190 innings this year, from the Detroit Tigers.

Colavito, 35, and 15th on the all-time home run list with 375, signed with the Yankees on July 15. He hit five homers, drove in 13 runs and batted .220 in 38 games in addition to making an emergency appearance as a relief pitcher in a two-inning stint.

Rondout JV's Win Over Pine Bush

PINE BUSH—Rondout Valley JV's squeezed by Pine Bush 13-12 as halfback John Ryder scored from the one foot line with a minute to play to tie the score for Rondout and then added the extra point for victory.

Pine Bush scored first as John Christian recovered a fumble in the end zone. Stan Phillips then scored on a quarterback sneak to put Pine Bush ahead 12-0. The second half however saw the junior Ganders come back as Larry Sullivan scored from one yard outfi to get them back in the game.

Montanye Takes Accord Feature

ACCORD—Harold Montanye overhauled early leader Warren Nissen on the 12th lap and held the lead to the finish to win the Sportsman feature at Accord Speedway.

Pete Keator, in the Simpson J 26, grabbed the runnerup slot, followed by Dan Mehm, Reggi Salcberg and Ed McCormick in that order. Montanye and Lee Cole were heat winners.

Bill Martin captured the Sedan feature event. Stan Effner was second, leading Doug Tyler, Howard Cornish and Dave Coe to the wire.

Novice class feature went to Wayne Tyler, who was chased across the line by Jerry Quick, Jr., Wayne Gundberg, Butch Atkins, Tommy Beesimer. Tyler and Kenny Barringer took the heats.

Balsis Runs 150 To Whip Luther

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Balsis shut out Luther Lassister of Elizabeth City, N.C., by running 150-and-out on the break Monday night in the International Billiards Tournament.

In other matches:

Irving Crane of Rochester, N. Y., defeated Lassiter 150 - 51, and Steve Mizerak of Perth Amboy, N.J., topped Lou Butera of Kingston, Pa., 150-57.

Rookies Play

NEW YORK (UPI)—Four rookies with an excellent chance to stick in the National Hockey League are expected to see action Friday night when the New York Rangers entertain the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens in an exhibition game.

Forwards Walt Tkaczuk and Juha Widing and defensemen Allan Hamilton and Brad Park are the promising Ranger youngsters.

'We're Going to Have to Start Over'

By DENNIS R. CARO
Freeman Sports Staff

SCHENECTADY — Kingston High school football coach Frank Modica and assistant George Neher sat with their heads down on the steps outside the visiting locker room.

Under ordinary circumstances Linton High school halfback Tom Saehrig would have been the goat in Saturday's contest. At least as much of a goat as you can be after you've punted three times for an average of 39 yards.

Saehrigc carried the ball four times for Linton, and fumbled twice. Both miscues led to Kingston touchdowns. The other two times he carried he lost a total of three yards.

But Saehrig was in the right place at the right time, with no time left on the clock, and he gathered in a deflected pass from Blue Devil quarterback Joe Catalafamo and stumbled across the goal line for the tie-ing points. The extra point attempt went squarely through the uprights and Kingston lost a heartbreaker, 26-25.

Catalafamo's desperation heave bounced off the helmet of his end Kirk Buell and then seemingly through the arms of three Kingston defenders. One of them tapped it up in the air, and Saehrig was a hero.

Modica slammed his foot hard against the concrete. "I don't ever like to lose," he said, "but lose this way . . . "

It isn't often that a team wins a game in the closing seconds, and Linton didn't win this one. Kingston gave it away.

"They're going to have to learn," Modica said. "You've got to hit the ball down in a situation like that. We're going to have to start over again from basics."

The Maroon defense was magnificent, until the last minute of play when Linton almost doubled its figures for total yardage.

Linton's powerhouse fullback Ken Grey was held to 25 yards, and was stacked up three times on the Kingston goal line before he went in for the first score of the game, capitalizing on a Maroon fumble on the two yard line.

The Blue Devils second touchdown, again set up by a Kingston fumble, was a perfectly thrown pass from Catalafamo to Larry Wilk and the third another perfect toss to Kirk Buell.

The third TD featured the longest Dorpian drive of the game, up to that point, 38 yards following a 22 yard punt return.

The Maroon defense nailed Catalafamo five times, once during the final drive, but it was the time the senior quarterback got away that hurt.

With 12 seconds left on the clock, his receivers well covered and chased by a host of Maroon linemen, Catalafamo took off for the sidelines to stop the clock. He picked up six yards on the play, which was unimportant, and guaranteed himself another shot at the tying touchdown which was very very important.

Modica kicked the concrete, hard.

This Saturday Kingston again journey's north, this time to Johnstown. And the men in Maroon are going to be mad.

Kingston Harriers Score 19th Straight; Trample Monticello 16-46 in Dual Meet

MONTICELLO — The Kingston High School Harriers rolled to their 19th straight win, burying Monticello 16-46 in a dual meet here Monday.

Wayne Sickler led the 1-2-3-4 Kingston finish, turning the 2.3 mile Monticello course in 11 minutes and 10 seconds, only five seconds off the course record. Jim Gilpatrick finished second, 16 seconds behind Ralph Veytia was third in 11:35 and Bob Burger fourth in 11:43.

Monticello's first finisher Dan Barber, took the fifth spot, eight seconds ahead of Kingston's Barry Hughes who finished in 12:02 for sixth place to complete the Maroon scoring.

Monticell's Ken Lohmeyer squeezed in between Coach Jack Gilligan's displacement runners John Salzman and Steve Olsen, for eighth place, and the homestanding Monties were awarded 10th, 11th and 12th places although their fifth runner came in 16th.

The first five runners count in team scoring, and the sixth and seventh men can displacement opposing finishers.

The win at Monticello was the third straight this season, and the Harriers host Newburg Oct. 7 hoping to extend the total streak to 20.

Kingston Booters Bury Coleman 11-1; Start DUSO Slate At Middletown Wed.

The Kingston High school soccer squad routed John A. Coleman High 11-1 yesterday, but Maroon Coach John Hunter was far from satisfied.

The 10-point margin of victory was one more than in last Thursday's 9-0 massacre, but the Coleman squad showed a great deal of improvement and Kingston did not.

"If we make the same mistakes in Middletown Wednesday," Hunter said, "We're going to get beaten, and beaten badly.

"Our defense stunk. They couldn't kick, trap, head or control anything that came in their direction."

Hunter said his squad "got away with a lot because the Coleman squad is new to the game," but Middletown is the defending champ in the DUSO League and star forward Giusseppe Bruni can take advantage of openings.

With 1:55 gone in the first period, left wing Dieter Rausch took a lead pass from inside Henry Yeh for the first Kingston score. Nick Ascieno followed for the Maroon with a direct kick from 20 yards out and Fred Seeger closed out the opening frame with a passing shot.

In the second period, spare Brian Williams booted the fourth Kingston goal home during a scramble in front of the Coleman nets, and Bob Davis hit the upper right corner of the goal with a 30-yarder to make the score 5-0.

Seeger opened the second period with his second tally, on a shot that skidded off the leg of a Coleman back and then Dave Phillips scored on a push shot after the Coleman Goalie had deflected a Bob Davis attempt. Then Seeger tallied number three to complete his second hat trick of the season on a drop pass from Harry Wyncoop.

The fourth period had tallies by Davis, Rick Hatterman and Wyncoop.

Davis scored on a lead pass up the middle from Williams, Hatterman picked one out of the middle of a goal line scramble and Wyncoop scored on a push shot after a fine lead pass from Hatterman.

Seeger's three goals gives him a total of nine in three games.

AS ALWAYS, THE CLOCK WILL PLAY a major role in the Olympics. The 1968 games to be held in Mexico City this month, often will have the world's greatest athletes competing against each other — and that stopwatch. Some star Americans include Don Schollander (TL), free-style swimmer; Bill Toomey (below him) in the decathlon; Jim Ryun (TC), 1,500-meter runner, and Bob Seagren, pole vaulter (R). (NEA PHOTOS).

American Grand Prix Off Sunday; Hill Favorite in 248-Mile Test

By CLAY F. RICHARDS

WATKINS GLEN, N.Y. (UPI) —The world's top race drivers begin arriving in this upstate New York resort community today for Sunday's 248-mile Grand Prix of the United States.

Eighteen veterans of the European Grand Prix circuit and two Indianapolis drivers make up the field for the race, the only event held in this country to determine the world driver's championship.

The drivers will get their first look at the 2.3-mile tear-drop shaped Glen track today. Many of the European drivers will make a tour on foot of the track today or Wednesday, with official practice beginning Friday.

"You see a lot of walking around the course on foot that you miss when you go by at 120 miles an hour," said Graham Hill, former world champion and one of the four drivers battling for the title this year. "It changes from year to year, new bumps, wider shoulders, little things that add or take seconds away."

Hill is considered an expert on the Glen track. He has won three of the last five American Grand Prix races here, losing the last two years to the late Jimmy Clark of Scotland.

Hill's Lotus-Ford is heavily favored in the race and he is the only one of the four men in competition for the title who can clinch the championship with a victory at the Glen. Hill can win the title by running first at the Glen only if defending champion Denis Hulme of New Zealand and third place Jackie Stewart of Scotland finish no better than third. The fourth man in the battle, Jackie Ickx of Belgium, will miss the race because of a broken leg suffered in practice for the Canadian Grand Prix two weeks ago.

Ickx, who is tied with Stewart for third, plans to be back in the cockpit for the Mexican Grand Prix later this month, however, and still has a crack at the title if Hill does not seal it up this weekend.

Stewart, driving the highly successful new Matra-Ford, is the only driver to actually practice on the Glen track so far. The young Scot was given special permission to make unofficial practice runs last weekend to test new tires made in England especially for the Glen race.

Stewart's best time during the unofficial runs was 124.88 miles per hour, a shade off Hill's 1967 lap record of 125.45. Race officials predict the faster cars this year will set a new lap record of above 130 miles per hour.

For the first time this year, two Indianapolis drivers—Mario Andretti and Bobby Unser—have decided to test their skills against the European drivers on a road track.

While the European Grand Prix drivers have raced and won at Indianapolis during the past three years, this will be the first time in this country that Indy drivers have attempted the twisting, turning road course used by the Formula One drivers through this Finger Lakes Country.

The two-hour plus championship race will get the green flag Sunday afternoon, following two days of time trials to determine grid positions.

Jeghers-Pfeiffer Tandem Wins Member-Guest Event

Walt Jeghers and his guest, Wally Pfeiffer of Wiltwyck Country Club, combined for a best-ball, seven under par 63 to capture the Member-Guest tournament at The Twaalfskill Club. They played with combined handicap of 34 strokes.

Two teams finished one stroke off the pace—John J. McGarry and Al Queen and John Provenzano and Leon Randall of Wiltwyck. Randall fired a 3-under-par 33, 34-67 to earn low gross honors for the day. Runnerup was Rick Barthel with 69.

Other scores:

Rick Barthel-Brian Smith, 65; Alvin Boice-P.McGuire, 65; Dr. C. J. Goffredi-Donald DeKoskie, 66; George Hughes-John Epsey, 66; Dr. Douw Myers-Hank Boice, 68; Frank Vogt-Seymour Werbalowsky, 68; Herman Glanz-Ed LaMonte, 68; Joseph Hill-B. Casabant, 68.

John Avery-John Liguoir, 69; Dusham-B. Hinkley, 69; Ed Minasian-Dr. Saul Golfrab, 69; Harry Fertel-Larry Jacobs, 70; John Fisher-Tom Glynn, 70; John Purvis-Ralph Stewart, 70.

Blass won five of six decisions in September, incuding three consecutive shutouts.

Ousted Umpires Avert Boycott Of World Series

CHICAGO (UPI)—Two ousted American League umpires have averted a strike that would have kept American League umpires from officiating at the World Series because they did not want to "deprive the American baseball fans of the annual classic."

The Association of American League Umpires had voted Monday to boycott the series, opening Wednesday, because of the Sept. 16 ouster of Al Salerno and Bill Valentine by American League president Joe Cronin.

The umpires reversed their decision after Salerno and Valentine asked them to work the series.

A demand that the two umpires be reinstated immediately was approved unanimously by the 18 umpires who attended the meeting in Chicago.

The association also voted unanimously to invite National League umpires in to form a single group called the National Association of Major League Umpires.

Barry in Action

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Rick Barry will make his American Basketball Association debut when the Oakland Oaks meet the Indiana Pacers at Indianapolis Oct. 18.

Barry was forced to sit out the entire 1967-68 campaign after jumping from San Francisco of the National Basketball Association. The regular ABA season will conclude April 3.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Malaga, executive secretary of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Assoiation, announed Monday the seletion of San Juan, Puerto Rio, as site of the International Davis Cup matches between the United States and the winner of the West Germany-India series.

Schumann, Purdy Annex Northeastern's Pro-Senior

VALATIE — Columbia pro Bill Schumann teamed with senior Al Purdy to fire a sizzling 11-under-par 61 to capture the 1968 Northeastern New York Pro-Senior golf championship Monday at Winding Brook.

Schumann and Purdy, who fired nines of 29-32, finished two strokes ahead of Joe Maley and Ernie Roberts, while host pro Claude Young and Elliot Smith were among five teams tied with 74's.

Kingston area pros failed to place in the Pro-Senior event.

Low pro of the day was Wallhalla's John Maurycy with a 36-35-71, while another highlight was furnished by Joseph C. Brennan of Wolfers Roost, who had a hole-in-one on the 169-yard third hole.

Using a 5-iron, Brennan carded his second hole-in-one of the season, having previously garnered an ace at Albany Country Club this year.

Jim Hutchins of Woodstock was among the pro leaders with 37-37-74. Alex Gerlak of Twaalfskill finished with 37-38-75.

Other pro leaders included: Bill Schumann, Columbia, 36-36-72; Claude Young, Winding Brook, 36-37-73; Tim Cronin, Warrensburg, 38-35-73; John Doctor, Plattsburgh, 35-38-73; Glenn Young, Pinehaven, 35-39-74; Larry Ostrander, Windham, 38-37-75; Bill Gressick, Catskill, 40-36-76; Earl Roy, Cobleskill, 36-41-77; Gus Grygiel, Oneonta, 39-37-76; Marty Czwaikel, Normanside, 39-38-77.

Lou Pedulla, Highmount, 39-38-77; Bob Haggerty, 38-40-78; Steve Savel, Western Turnpike, 39-39-78; Dick Osborne, Ballston Spa, 36-42-78; Joe Sondey, Red Hook, 41-38-79; John Gaucas, Van Schaick, 40-40-80.

Investigation Continuing in The Hijacking

Investigation of the hijacking of a truck on the State Thruway south of Kingston and the theft of a cargo of women's coats and dresses valued in excess of $100,000, continued today in the New York City area.

State BCI Investigators Roger Gardner and Fred Grunewald of Kingston, went to New York City Monday to assist in the investigation and attempt to uncover clues that might lead to a solution of the theft.

Troopers said the truck driven by Benny Lee Roberts, 28, of Springfield Gardens, Queens, with Peter James Fowler, 36, of 8th Avenue, New York City, as a helper, was stopped off the superhighway 10 miles south of this city, early Saturday when a car with four or five men appeared behind the vehicle.

Two men brandishing revolvers forced Roberts and Fowler into the sleeping compartment and the truck was driven to New York where it was unloaded at an undisclosed point. Subsequently the two truckmen were locked in the back of the truck, which was later found abandoned on State Island, where Roberts and Fowler were released.

Late reports noted that the value of the cargo was in excess of $100,000. It previously was said the women's clothing was worth between $50,000 and $100,000.

Leaders Plan Fall Events For Kingston

The Kingston Neighborhood Association of Girl Scout Leaders held the first fall business meeting recently at St. Joseph's School. Main item on the agenda was the explanation of the new registration forms by Troop Consultant Mrs. Ruth Notari. Registrations for Kingston Neighborhood are due in the Scout Office by Oct. 1.

Tentative plans for the year's program were discussed, including events for all age levels and a joint program with the Ulster-Hurley area during International Friendship month.

Brownies will lead off the a rea events with a Fun Day scheduled for Oct. 18. The program will include fun and games in the morning followed by a nosebag lunch and a quiet session during and after lunch when the girls will make fancy hats of paper plates, crepe paper, glue and lots of imagination. Final event of the day will be a hat parade when each Brownie will model her own creation.

Junior Scouts will have the spotlight on Oct. 26, with an outdoor skills day in Forsyth Park, Mrs. Neil Ryder, troop organizer, will be chairman for this event. Instructors for the day will include Gary Klemm and a contingent of Explorer Boy Scouts.

Mrs. Horace Brown, neighborhood chairman, also introduced other members of the Service Team, whose function it is to assist the leaders in every way possible to insure good scout program. Mrs. Ryder also announced the formation of several new troops in the uptown area, and the relocation of some existing troops.

Mrs. Robert Kmieciak Jr., Troop Consultant will hold an informational meeting at her home on Oct. 26 for new Junior leaders. Mrs. Helen Fagan will continue as Cadette and Senior Troop Consultant, and Mrs. Kenneth Dittus as Brownie Consultant.

The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts Inc. is a participating member of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Hurley Board Has Discussion On Zoning

The Town Board of Hurley met last night and discussed the zoning ordinance passed a year ago which subsequently became the subject of an injunction placed by several town citizens.

Since that time the zoning board was reestablished and a public hearing was held Aug. 29 at which recommendations were made and minor amendments suggested.

No date has been set for future consideration.

The board also discussed a communique from the Lower Esopus Waterways Commission Board join other towns along the Esopus in a clean-up endeavor.

Supervisor Robert Schneller also suggested that the board consider a local ordinance to deal with creek pollution.

The Irwin Plan, a road construction program in which the state reimburses the town for part of money expended on the building of roads was under consideration by the board which determined that it was too expensive to consider at this time.

Three Churches Sponsor Christian Laymen's School

A Christian Layman's School will be conducted for eight weeks from Oct. 14 through Dec. 9, except Nov. 11, under the sponsorship of the Woodstock Reformed, Overlook United Methodist, and Christ Lutheran Churches of Woodstock. The Monday sessions will be held from 7:30 to 10 p. m. at the Woodstock Reformed Church.

Eight courses will be taught with each registrant eligible to enroll in two courses to be taught over the eight-week period.

The courses to be taught are: The Gospel of Mark, the Rev. Donald E. Hicks; The Psalms, the Rev. Mr. Hicks; Church History, the Rev. Steven Middernacht; The Church's Music, the Rev. Mr. Middernacht; Parents on the Run, Miss Louise Wunderle; Learning to Lead, Ray Morris; Contemporary Religious Problems, Rev. James W. Cook; Christian Word Study, the Rev. Mr. Cook.

Early registration is advised and may be secured at each of the three participating churches.

Must All Serve During Conflict Says Javits

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Sen. Jacob K. Javits urges that student deferments be ended in times of armed conflict.

"The blood of the advantaged may well be shed on their country's behalf with as much grace as the blood spilled by those born to less fortunate circumstances," he said Monday in an address to the Maxwell School of Public Affairs at Syracuse University.

"So long as we are engaged in tragic conflict in Vietnam, we must all bear the burden of that conflict."

He also recommended that:

—The President be required to call 19-year-olds first.

—Congress pass a law authorizing the use of a national lottery system to determine those called for military service.

— Congress repeal amendments enacted at the last session, "which were aimed at curbing the rights of conscientious objectors and the constitutional right of judicial review for draftees."

— The President be required, "when national security permits," to grant draft deferments to students at four-year colleges, vocational schools, technical and junior colleges. Apprenticeship programs also would be included in the list, he said.

Javits, a Republican, is a candidate for reelection.

Killed at Plant

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) I Newman Brennan, 52, of Buffalo was fatally injured Monday in an industrial accident at the Hanna Furnace Corp. plant.

A spokesman for the company said Brennan was caught in the mechanism of a crane while it was loading pig iron.

Cowles Named Press Aide By Senator Charles Goodell

NEW YORK (AP)—Alfred E. Cowles former executive secretary for the Washington State Board of Discrimination, was named press secretary Monday to Sen. Charles E. Goodell.

The 39-year-old Negro described himself as "a responsible militant" during a news conference and said, "I hope to influence Senator Goodell on various legislative matters."

Goodell, a Republican, was recently appointed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeler to fill the seat left vacant at the death of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Cowles said he would not be a "yes man." He added, "I checked on the senator for three weeks before making a decision on whether to take the job. I didn't want another job as a consultant on racial matters."

A native New Yorker, educated at Manhatan Colege, Cowles worked in various community programs in the city before becoming director of human relations for Grand Rapids, Mich. in 1958.

Cowles is married to the former Ida Marie Draper of Washington, a teacher in the Seattle school system.

Driver Fined On DWI Charge

Charged with driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated, John N. Scharschu, 71, 15 Stickles Avenue, was fined $50 Monday when he appeared before City Judge Hubert A. Richter, who also revoked the man's operator's license.

Kingston police booked Brian Richard Kelder, 21, of 63 Wurts Street, on Monday on charges of passing a flashing red light, speeding, failure to produce a registration for the car he was operating and being an unlicensed driver.

Transplant Heart From Assault Victim

VALPARAISO, Chile (UPI)— Doctors at Almirante Neff Hospital today transplanted the heart of a 17-year-old assault victim into a 21-year-old man and reported it was "beating regularly."

Dr. Jorge Kaplan called the 65-minute operation a "success." He supervised the transplant, Chile's second.

The donor was Pedro Contreras Arevalo, injured in a beating 15 days ago. He died late Monday. Kaplan identified the recipient as Nelson Orellana Sanchez.

DOG ORDINANCE

This ordinance shall be known as "Town of Rosendale Dog Ordinance"

BE IT RESOLVED and ordained by the Town Board of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, as follows:

SECTION I. LEGISLATIVE INTENT. The purpose of this ordinance shall be to preserve the public peace and good order in the Town of Rosendale and to contribute to the public welfare and good order of its people by enforcing certain regulations and restrictions on the activities of dogs that are consistent with the rights and privileges of the owners of dogs and the rights and privileges of other citizens of the Town of Rosendale.

This ordinance is adopted pursuant to the authority of Section 126 of the Agriculture and Markets Law of the State of New York.

SECTION II. DEFINITION OF TERMS. As used and intended in this ordinance and for the purpose hereof, unless the context otherwise indicates:

ANIMAL—Shall mean male or female dogs either singular or plural.

TOWN—Shall designate the area within the corporate limits of the Town of Rosendale; outside the incorporated village of Rosendale.

OWNER—Shall be considered the party purchasing the license unless dog is or has been lost, and such loss reported to the Rosendale Constable and reasonable search has been made. If an animal is not licensed the term owner shall designate and cover any person or persons, firm, association or corporation, who or which at any time owns or has custody or control of, harbors, or is otherwise repsonsible for any animal which is kept, brought or comes within the Town. Any person owning or harboring a dog for a period of one (1) week prior to the filing of any complaint charging a violation of this ordinance, shall be held and deemed to be the owner of such dog for the purpose of the ordinance. In the event any dog found to be in violation of this chapter shall be owned by a minor, the head of the houshold in which said minor resides shall be deemed to have custody and control of said dog and shall be responsible for any acts of the said dog and violation of this ordinance.

AT LARGE— As applied to an animal shall designate and describe each animal at all times when it is off the premises of its owner or is on the premises of another without his consent, and is not under the visual and voice control of its owner.

CONFINED — As applied to an animal shall mean that such animal is securely confined or restrained and kept on the owner's premises, either within a building, kennel or wire or other suitable enclosure or securely fastened on a chain, wire or other effective tether of such length and so arranged that the animal cannot reach or endanger any person or any adjacent premises or on any public street, way or place, or, if the animal is being transported by the owner, that it is securely confined in a crate, or other container, or so restrained in a vehicle that it cannot escape therefrom.

DANGEROUS—Shall mean, designate and apply to any animal which, without just cause bites, attacks, chases or snaps at or otherwise threatens to attack any person or attacks and wounds a dog or other domestic animal, or which displays any other fierce, vicious or dangerous propensities.

PUBLIC NUISANCE—As applied to an animal shall describe, designate or apply to:

A. Every animal which seriously and habitually disturbs the peace and quiet of the neighborhood by barking or howling or making other disturbing noises.

B. Every animal which habitually chases any persons or bicycles, automobiles or other vehicles upon any public highway or in any such public place.

C. Every animal which causes damage or destruction to property upon the premises other than the owner or person harboring such animal.

D. Every animal which is a dangerous animal as defined in the above definition of "dangerous"; every such animal is hereby declared to be a public nuisance.

SECTION III. OWNER'S RESPONSIBILITY. The owner of every animal which is at any time kept, brought or comes into the town will be held responsible for the strict observance by such animal and with respect to such animal, of all the rules and regulations contained in this ordinance at all times when such animal is within the town.

SECTION IV. ANIMALS IN HEAT. The owner of every female animal must effectively confine such animal at all times during every period while such animal is in heat.

SECTION V. ANIMALS TO BE CONTROLLED. No person who owns a dog shall permit such dog to be at large in the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, unless said dog is restrained by an adequate collar and leash or unless accompanied by its owner or a responsible person able to control the animal other than when on the premises of the person owning, keeping, harboring, or having the custody and control of such dog, or upon the premises of another with the knowledge, consent and approval of the owner of said premises, or when hunting in the company and under the control of a hunter or hunters.

SECTION VI. DANGEROUS ANIMALS. It shall be unlawful for any animal determined to be dangerous to be at large within the Town of Rosendale at any time, even though such animal is licensed, muzzled and effectively immunized against rabies. A dangerous animal which is found at large may be taken and impounded. If any dangerous, fierce or vicious animal found at large cannot be safely taken up and impounded such animal may be summarily slain.

SECTION VII. APPOINTMENT OF DOG WARDEN.

A. The Town of Rosendale can appoint a Dog Warden pursuant to the appropriate statutes of the State of New York, and further designate all Town Constables or specially designated representative to serve as special dog wardens as needed. It shall be the duty of such Dog Warden or Constables of the Town of Rosendale to enforce the appropriate provisions of the Agriculture and Markets Law with respect to dogs in the Town of Rosendale and to enforce this ordinance.

B. The Dog Warden or Constables of the Town of Rosendale shall seize any dog which is found to be in violation of any portion of this ordinance as well as any dog or dogs otherwise required to be seized under and by virtue of the Agriculture and Markets Law of the State of New York. All complaints concerning alleged violations of this ordinance shall be communicated to the Warden or Constables. All such complaints shall be investigated and it shall be the duty of the Dog Warden or Constables in the appropriate case to proceed with civil or criminal enforcement of this ordinance or any other provisions of law pertaining hereto.

SECTION VIII. ABANDONED DOGS. Any dog at large, which does not display any current dog license, or other means of identification, or which fails to exhibit any evidence of having had administered to it a rabies vaccination, shall be considered an abandoned dog and may be summarily impounded by the Dog Warden.

SECTION IX. REDEMPTION OF SEIZED DOGS.

A. Every dog seized shall be properly fed and cared for at the expense of the Town of Rosendale until disposition thereof, as herein provided, and in accordance with the applicable provisions of the Agriculture and Markets Law of the State of New York.

B. Every dog seized shall be treated in a humane manner.

C. If the dog seized bears a license tag, the Dog Warden shall ascertain the owner of the dog and shall give immediate notice by personally serving such owner, or by mailing said personal notice to such owner, or an adult member of his family with a notice in writing stating that the dog has been seized and will be destroyed unless redeemed as herein provided.

D. The owner of a dog so seized may redeem the dog within seven (7) days, except that the owner of a dog bearing a license tag may redeem the dog within twelve (12) days by paying to the Town Clerk the sum of five dollars [$5.00] as the cost of seizure, and the reasonable cost of feeding and caring for such dog.

E. If not so redeemed, the owner shall forfeit all title to the dog and the dog shall be sold or destroyed by the Dog Warden. In the case of sale, the purchaser must pay the purchase price to the Town Clerk and obtain a license for such dog. A dog which is to be destroyed shall be done so only by a veterinarian and/or SPCA, in keeping with the latest humane practices of disposing of animals. The Dog Warden who causes such dog to be destroyed shall make a written report of such destruction and disposition to the Town Clerk, together with a statement from the veterinarian destroying the dog stating that the dog was destroyed in keeping with humane practices. The Town Clerk shall keep a record of all dogs which are destroyed.

SECTION X. HUMANE TREATMENT OF ANIMALS. It shall be unlawful for any person in the Town of Rosendale to torture, torment, deprive of necessary sustenance, unnecessarily or cruelly beat or otherwise abuse, or needlessly mutiliate or kill, a living animal or creature. Any animal so treated shall be impounded by the Dog Warden. The owner thereof shall be notified in writing and by personal service or by regular mail, of the alleged violation, and the matter shall be referred to the Justice of the Peace for a hearing and determination.

SECTION XI. PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS: Any violation of this ordinance constitutes an offense. The following fines and penalties are hereby imposed in addition to the punishments imposed by any general statutes, on every person who violates, or who owns or is responsible for any animal which violates, any of the foregoing requirements or provisions of this ordinance, to wit: for a first offense, a fine of not less than ten dollars ($10.00) and not exceeding twenty-five dollars ($25.00) and for any second or subsequent violations, a fine of at least twenty-five ($25.00) and not more than one hundred and fifty dollars ($150.00) or imprisonment in the county jail for a period not exceeding thirty (30) days.

SECTION XII. COMPENSATION FOR DOGS DESTROYED.

The owner, harborer or possessor of any dog destroyed under the provisions of this ordinance shall not be entitled to any compensation and no action shall be maintainable thereafter to recover the value of the dog.

SECTION XIII. TOWN BOARD MAY AMEND: The Town Board may from time to time amend, supplement, change, modify or repeal this ordinance pursuant to the provisions of the Town Law applicable thereto.

SECTION XIV. SEPARABILITY AND VALIDITY.

If any clause, sentence, subdivision, paragraph, section or part of this ordinance be adjudged by any court of competent jurisdiction to be invalid, such judgment shall not effect, impair or invalidate the remainder thereof, but shall be confined in its operation to the clause, sentence, subsection, paragraph, section or part thereof, directly involved in the controversy in which said judgment shall have been rendered.

SECTION XV. EFFECTIVE DATE. This ordinance shall take effect ten (10) days after publication and posting pursuant to Section 133 of the Town Law of the State of New York but shall take effect from the date of its service as against a person served personally with a copy thereof, verified by the Town Clerk under the corporate seal of the town; and showing the date of its passage and entry in the minutes.

DATED: September 18, 1968

CATHERINE A. O'LEARY
Town Clerk
BY ORDER OF THE TOWN BOARD OF THE TOWN OF ROSENDALE

STATE OF NEW YORK }
} ss:
COUNTY OF ULSTER }

I, the undersigned, Town Clerk of the Town of Rosendale, Ulster County, New York, DO HEREBY CERTIFY:

That I have compared the annexed extract of the minutes of the meeting of the Town Board of said Town, including the ordinance contained therein, held on the 18th day of September, 1968, with the original thereof on file in my office, and that the same is true and correct transcript therefrom and of the whole of said original so far as the same relates to the subject matters therein referred to.

I FURTHER CERTIFY that all members of said Board had due notice of said meeting.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the seal of said Town this 18th day of September, 1968.

Library Planning Great Books Group

The director of the Kingston Area Library, Richard H. Rosichan, announced he is planning a Great Books Discussion Group which will meet every other week beginning in October.

Members will discuss important classical works and modern novels and non-fiction; books that have influenced people and events in the past and are influencing today's world.

The program will be led by Rosichan and will be free.

The program, which is open to the public, will see members reading in advance the book to be discussed each evening.

EMPLOYMENT

ATTENTION JOB APPLICANTS

The Kingston Daily Freeman does not knowingly accept Help-Wanted ads from employers covered by the Fair Labor Standards Act if they offer less than the legal minimum wage or fail to pay at least time and one-half for overtime hours. The minimum wage for employment covered by the FLSA prior to the 1966 Amendments is $1.60 an hour with overtime pay required after 40 hours a week. Jobs covered as a result of the 1966 Amendments require $1.15 an hour minimum with overtime pay required after 42 hours a week. For specific information, contact the Wage and Hour Office of the U. S. Department of Labor, 881 Gerard Ave., Bronx, N. Y., 10452, WYandotte 2-1235.

IMPORTANT NOTICE: The New York State Law against Discrimination and the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964 prohibit discrimination in employment because of sex unless based on a bona fide occupational qualification. Help Wanted and Situation Wanted advertisements are arranged in columns captioned "Male" and "Female" for the convenience of readers and are not intended as an unlawful limitation or discrimination based on sex.

Dear Abby

'Go and Sin No More

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am so ashamed of myself I hardly know how to start this letter. I am 28 years old and have a good husband and three sweet children. We recently moved to a small town where my husband bought a business. For the first time since my marriage I found myself attracted to another man.

Last night I made an excuse to get out of the house to meet this man, and Abby, I made a terrible mistake with him. He is one of my husband's best customers. It wasn't worth it. Now I get sick to my stomach every time I think of what I did.

This man's wife has invited us over and my husband would like to socialize with them. What am I going to do? What excuse can I give? I don't care to see this man again.

My husband would die if he ever found out. I am (or was) a good Christian woman. Please help me.

SINNER

DEAR SINNER: Be realistic. At the first opportunity, tell the man that you regret the done, cannot be undone. As a Christian, you know that Jesus forgave an adulteress. "(Go, and sin no more)."

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I like "A" but I don't love him. I love "B" but I don't like him. I am 28 years old and I'm not getting any younger. I can have either one of them. My mother says I'm better off marrying "A" because he's a solid citizen who will look ofter me, and in time I can learn to love him.

But how about my marrying "B"—the guy I love? He's kind of shifty and bends with the wind, but maybe in time I can learn to like him.

"EENY-MEENY"

DEAR "EENY": Your mother is right. Your chances for learning to "love" a responsible man you "like" are far better than your chances for learning to like an irresponsible man you "love." (At 28 you're not ready for the rocking chair. There could be a "miney" in your future—and Mo?)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We recently bought a lovely home directly across the street from a mortuary. People attending funerals there park their cars in front of our house. If we happen to be outside doing yard work they give us dirty looks as tho we had no right to be there. One lady saw me shaking a throw rug and said. "Don't you have any respect for the dead?" It's a busy funeral home, Abby, and there is always something going on there.

What are we supposed to do? Get all dressed up like we were going to a funeral just to pull weeds? Thank You.

IDAHO FAMILY

DEAR FAMILY: No. Go about your business, and disregard the mourners.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BRICKTOP": I think you spend too much time worrying about what other people think of you, which could mean you have more confidence in their opinion than in your own.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

* * *

FOR ABBY'S BOOKLET, "HOW TO HAVE A LOVELY WEDDING," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL., 90069.

Bridge is a game of 13. There are 13 cards in each suit, 13 in each hand, and 13 tricks.

One test of bridge ability is how well one can count to 13.

Today's hand is a lay down grand slam. All South has to do is to run off 13 tricks. There is a slight problem about the 13th trick. South takes 12 tricks with aces, kings and queens. if he plays them carelessly it turns out that East will be left with the jack of clubs, West with 10 of diamonds, and South with a bad case of lost contract.

Then why is it a lay down? Just a simple matter of 13s. South wins the diamond lead in his own hand and pauses to take stock. He counts 12 top tricks and sees that his No. 13 has to come in either diamonds or clubs. If either suit breaks 3-3 he is home. If either defender holds four cards in both those suits, he will be squeezed. Furthermore the jack of clubs may drop doubleton. All in all, it is a pleasant prospect.

None of these things hapen but the contract is still a sure thing.

South cashes his high spades and hearts. West shows out on the second spade and East on the second heart. West lets two hearts go on the spades, East drops two spades on the hearts.

This means that each player started with seven cards in the majors and is left with a total of six cards in the minors.

Now South cashes two more diamonds. East shows out on the third diamond so he must have started with four clubs. One more subtraction from 13 and South knows that West started with exactly two clubs. He cashes his ace of clubs, leads a club to dummy's king and finesses against the jack of clubs for his 13th trick.

Horoscope By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCT. 2, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A friend may be misinformed where acquisition or partnership deal is concerned. Guard your assets. Don't permit sentiment, wishful thinking to throw you for loss. Be specific, factual.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Some who should know better tend to put stock in second-hand reports. Be receptive, but don't believe everything you hear. Avoid needless brooding. Plan ahead. Highlight.

GEMIMI (May 21-June 20): Check details connected with journeys. Associates, co-worders and neighbors are intrigued with your thoughts, actions. More social activity occurs than you had imagined—surprise due.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You are able to break through numerous restrictions. You gain special permission. Member of opposite sex plays instrumental role. Stick to issues, avoid extravagance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Be a keen observer. Ideas are exchanged. Listen and learn. Don't force your own views. You ultimately gain through patience, charm. Overcome tendency to act on impulse. Play waiting game.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you seek too much at once, nothing is gained. Finish one task at a time. Don't spread yourself too thin. Keep resolutions concerning diet, exercise and health. Key is moderation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Don't be in too much of a hurry to spend. Genuine bargain is available—if you take time to look. One who works with you does not appear to have all facts. Act accordingly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Overcome temptation to veer toward wishful thinking. Key to success is facing facts, checking details. Home situation is accented. Invest in your own future. You'll gain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You get boost from one whose views were not known. Surprise element is featured. Influence spreads. You are able to complete important aspects of project.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Friends and money may not mix. Know this and respond accordingly. Heed advice of one who is conservative. Otherwise a relationship could end because of financial dispute.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be self-reliant. Those at the top may be confused. Set the pace. Cycle remains high. Be confident, dynamic. Suggestions come your way. Be grateful but also discriminating.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Secret message, disclosure could highlight day. Expand sphere of interest. Don't be bogged down with one idea, method. Be bersatile—display sense of humor. Don't panic.

IF TODAY S YOUR BIRTHDAY you are- sensitive, artistic. You now have incountered new challenge and have opportunity to prove abilities.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for AQUARIUS, PISCES, ARIES. Special word to CAPRICORN: see people in more realistic light.

ABC-TV A Little Different

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — ABC-TV, the smallest commercial television network, has the least to lose in the ratings battle—and has used this advantage in its new season series by being different.

It is true that being different in network television is hardly being radical, but it's something anyway. And the opportunity in new weekly series fell almost naturally to ABC-TV because the two larger networks, CBS-TV and NBC-TV, fighting for the top spot, have generally played it close to the vest rather than risk blowing the whole ball game.

Outside of NBC-TV's "Julia," which stars a Negro actress, Diahann Carroll, most of the new regular entries on the two biggest networks tend to be of the standard type.

Of ABC-TV's new series, then, here are some that created interest as a result of their premieres last week:

—"The Outcasts." This is a good one-hour Western. The principal characters are a white ex-Virginia aristocrat (Don Murray) down on his luck, and a black former slave who has turned bounty hunter (Otis Young). They reluctantly team up, don't like each other but have a sort of mutual respect.

"That's Life." A one-hour book musical starring Robert Morse, this show concerns the romance, marriage and everyday life of a young couple in New York. There are top guest stars, old and new songs and gags galore. It seems a murderous chore to carry off weekly, but the debut was good.

—"The Mod Squad." Technically a police show, this hour effort tries to place its emphasis elsewhere—on three troubled young persons who have joined the force as a unit that can go where regular officers find it hard to get in. The play between the generations is the basic point.

—"The Ugliest Girl in Town." A wild half-hour comedy about an ingratiating young fellow (Peter Kastner) who follows his girl to London and, through an offbeat magazine photo layout, accidentally is mistaken for a top female model.

And the 'Journey'

In addition, ABC-TV introduced a mystery anthology called "Journey to the Unknown," a Western adventure-comedy entitled "Here Come the Brides" and a children's science-fiction outing, "Land of the Giants." And last Friday night, the network's final premiere arrived, a half-hour starring the noted insult comedian, Don Rickles.

Some of us have a blind spot about Rickles—we just like him, period. Others may well not. But the opener, which had its share of funny moments, also did something else: It opened up prime time again for racial, religious and other sensitive material with a pungent note. Rickles insults everybody and everything in sight, including his guests.

Chicago Probe: Wild Days Loom

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities probe into the disturbances during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago could result in some wild sessions if the panel's controversy-marked history is an indication.

Protestors Called

Called to appear before a special panel of the committee, which opened a week's worth of hearings today, are several antiwar protestors who produced some of the committee's most raucous hours two years ago.

Jerry Rubin, now a leader of the Youth International Party, or Yippies, appeared at the 1966 hearings into antiwar protests in a rented Revolutionary War uniform and was thrown out, along with 50 other persons.

Last week Rubin and Thomas E. Hayden, founder of the Students for Democratic Society, which has campaigned for abolition of HUAC, burned their committee subpoenas on the University of California's Berkeley campus.

Both, however, have said they would appear and there have been several reports that groups of demonstrators might try to disrupt the hearings.

In light of the reports and because of the past incidents, the committee has taken special security precautions in hopes of heading off disturbances.

Space in the hearing room is limited to 25 newsmen and only 75 spectators. The news people will need special passes to leave and re-enter the room, and there have been reports that the other onlookers will need special credentials to get in.

Also scheduled to appear are David Dellinger, Rennie Davis and Robert Greenbelt of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, and Abbie Hoffman of the Yippies.

Daley Asked to Testify

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has also been asked to testify.

The hearings were called after police and antiwar demonstrators battled in Chicago's streets. The demonstrators charged the police with brutality, while Daley said the protestors were led by elements devoted to the violent disruption of the convention.

In the 30 years since the committee was set up, it has been involved in constant, vitriolic disagreements over its tactics, goals and even its right to exist.

Most of the controversy, particularly since World War II, has involved communism and internal security, although in its early days the committee looked into alleged Nazi influence in the country. More recently it has investigated such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan.

The committee has initiated little legislation. Even less has been approved.

Richard M. Nixon, then a representative from California, gained national prominence as a committee member during the 1948 "Pumpkin Paper" hearings which led to the perjury conviction of Alger Hiss, a high State Department official charged with lying when he testified he was not a Communist.

Americans for Democratic Action, as well as SDS, have urged abolition of the committee. The American Civil Liberties Union has criticized the committee's procedures.

Several people have tried unsuccessfully to have the committee declared unconstitutional. Some congressmen try every year to withhold money from the committee. The attempt failed 343 to 44 this year.

Olympic Unrest Feared

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Striking students moved back into the University of Mexico Monday night after the army moved out and they vowed to continue a campaign against the government for reforms.

A call for support from students abroad to help in a fight against "30 years of political demogoguery and corruption of the Mexican government" raised anew the possibility that Mexico's student strife could interfere with the 1968 Olympics which open here Oct. 12.

It was a fear that students would upset the Olympics that brought about the army's occupation of the university Sept. 18.

Opening ceremonies for the Olympics are scheduled for Olympic Stadium across the way from the university campus.

Eight hours after the 1,300 army troops started their withdrawal from the campus, the students' Strike Council met and drew up a statement saying they would stick to their original demands for settlement of their strike.

"Here in Mexico we plan to keep opposing army violence and police clubs," one council member said.

The students' demands include firing of top police officials, disbanding of the riot police force called Granaderos, repeal of subversion laws and indemnity payments for those injured or killed in the rioting that began July 26.

Government spokesmen have said that troops were sent onto the campus, violating 40 years of autonomy, because a plot had come to light to seize the Olympic Stadium.

The student spokesman said that the strike committee, however, did consider it more urgent that "the problems of the Mexican people should be solved before fulfillment of any obligations the Mexican government has assumed in playing host to the Olympic Games."

New Left Movement Security Woe: FBI

By MALCOLM BARR

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI said today it has more than kept up with the nation's rising crime rate, but added that the New Left movement "has mushroomed into a major security problem."

In its annual report, the federal crime agency said the fiscal year that ended last June 30 was a period of "harsh, unremitting challenge for law enment."

But, the FBI said, it measured gains in several major areas of crime fighting, including a 19 per cent increase in its arrest rate over the previous year.

The 1968 figures were 18,881 apprehensions, compared with 15,87 the year before.

Another gain was claimed in convictions. The figures were 13,059 persons convicted in 1968, against 13,032 in fiscal 1967. The report stated that 97 per cent of those arrested were convicted.

The report came with "Law and Order" a major issue in the presidential campaign.

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon claims that crime is running wild and enforcement and court procedures haven't been able to keep up.

In a section headed "Protecting our Internal Security," the report, mirroring earlier statements by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, charged that the Students for a Democratic Society is at the core of student unrest "held together by a bitter hatred of . . . the institutions of democratic society."

It accused SDS of sponsoring workshops to teach sabotage and how to manufacture explosives for possible use against some government facilities.

The agency also said the Communist party continues as a danger to the nation's internal security, although it has been working to achieve respectability in the nation.

The report listed no arrests nor convictions in fiscal 1968 regarding internal subversion crimes.

The agency also noted what it said was a boost by the Soviet Union and several of its allies in spying operations in the United States.

According to the report, the two Soviet diplomatic missions in Washington and New York have increased their staffs from 346 persons in 1964 to 573 in fiscal 1968.

If these figures are correct, the Soviet Union has between 400 and 480 spies of various descriptions in this country.

Here, too, the report didn't list any arrests or convictions but stated: "The FBI remains alert to this danger."

Reporting on its activities against organized crime, the FBI said its probes netted the convictions of 281 figures associated with the Mafia crime syndicate during the fiscal period.

This compared with 197 the previous year, and in addition the report said there were more than 675 persons awaiting trial on charges growing from the FBI's drive against organized crime.

The rise in bank robberies and related crimes was described as "bewildering," though the report appeared to show that the FBI had kept pace by securing a record number of convictions.

The report showed 2,558 violations of the Federal Bank Robbery and Incidental Crimes statutes, with 1,105 convictions recorded.

Describing the protection of civil rights as "an essential principle in a democratic society," the report pointed pridefully to its part in apprehending James Earl Ray, the accused killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and listed other prominent civil rights investigations concluded during the year.

The Fortas Story Heads for Climax

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate controversy over the nomination of Abe Fortas as chief justice headed toward a first-round climax today with the opposition leader claiming victory in the fight against confirmation.

Fortas supporters reluctantly conceded he probably was right.

For the first time since the presidency of George Washington "The Senate is about to withhold confirmation of a presidential nomination for chief justice," Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., declared to his colleagues.

"Let the message go forth that the Senate once again takes seriously its advice and consent power."

The immediate test was a 1 p.m. EDT vote on whether to end a Republican - Southern Democrat - inspired filibuster preventing a vote on a motion to take up the nomination.

The debate-limiting motion, cloture in parliamentary language, requires a two-third majority of those present and voting, 67 if all 100 Senators participate.

White House nose counters could come up with only 55 probably votes for cloture out of about 90 to 95 senators expected to vote. This would be five to nine votes short.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield has said he would try again Thursday or Friday to shut off the talkathon.

Only a simple majority is needed to pass the motion to take up the nomination, but the administration forces were not even sure of that. They also faced the prospect of another filibuster on the nomination itself.
